'Jaycee Week' To Tell Story

By Bob Ghem

During "Jaycee Week," an attempt is made to give the citizens of Virginia Beach and the surrounding area, an insight in the history and development of the Jaycees. The purpose of the movement throughout the country and also an idea of the many and varied Jaycee activities.

The many local activities of Virginia Beach's 60 Jaycees are, of course, known throughout the city and the state for that matter. But what is not known by those familiar with the Jaycee movement is an equally important purpose of the organization. This purpose is that of Leadership Training. In an attempt to prepare the Jaycees of today for his all-important role as a business leader of the Virginia Beach of the future.

Many young men who enter the Jaycee chapter have never stood on their feet before a group. They lack the self-confidence so necessary in today's business world... whether it be negotiating with suppliers or supervising other employees. This is the type of self-confidence or leadership training that is not found in books or college courses. It can only be gained from experience. Experience with people. Such is what each member of the Jaycees receive in his participation in projects which not only helps himself but aid the community too.

At the outset, the newcomer to the Jaycees is given the opportunity to serve on several active committees of his choice and he works diligently on a number of worthwhile projects under the guidance and tutelage of more experienced men. After a minimum period of time, dependent upon his own ability, he too becomes a committee chairman, and as he progresses, gathers those intangible traits necessary for building good leadership. Such things as the ability to handle people and get them to work under the direction of supervisors voluntarily... a very necessary part of today's business leader.

No doubt many local business men have some young men in their business organization in whom they would like to build leadership. He may be a junior salesman, a young clerk, or even a member of the managerial staff. If he is between the ages of 21 and 35, and a registered voter, the Virginia Beach Jaycees would like to meet this young man and offer him this leadership training. And you, Mr. Businessman, will end up with a better citizen and a fine leader for your business organization.

Preaching Mission Here Drawing Good Crowds in Convention Center

The role of preachers was touched on by two ministers Tuesday at the Preaching Mission in the Convention Center.

"The Christian faith is not boring," said Dr. Carlyle Marney. "If it's dull, it's the preacher."

And the Rev. J. Daniel Joyce said the preacher came along "after Christianity had lost its early zeal."

Several hundred persons attended the third night service at the Convention Center. The Rev. Henry Barton presided.

Dr. Marney, minister of the Myers Park Baptist Church, Charlotte, N.C., said "redemption is ethical," and the church which first produces a race of believers who are like Jesus Christ won't have any difficulty establishing their theology."

Dr. Joyce, pastor of the Hanover Avenue Christian Church, Richmond, said the preacher, the man hired to do all the tasks, came after laymen decided they wanted paid professional clergyman.

He urged his audience to be witnesses for God's message.

"You can say something to a person next to you. If you would, which might put wings on his life."

He said also that pressure is mounting to make religion "a Sunday business" and told of a Brooklyn minister who was urged by a member of his congregation to "handle the ritual and we'll handle the political affairs."

The layman, he said, "can tell the wonderful story of Christ as well as anyone in the world. He asked for 'the kind of lay witness on your part which will change the community where you live.'"

Local School Sets Policy on Tuition Grants

The board of directors of the Country Day School for Girls here has issued a statement to clear up any misunderstanding about its policy in respect to state tuition grants.

The school has signed four tuition grant application forms, but this was merely to certify attendance and tuition payments for the period for which grants were sought.

"Signing of applications in no way constitutes approval or disapproval of the grant or of the principles involved," the board said, in part.

The school was "established prior to and without any thought of problems of integration in our public schools," the board said.

Only students deemed to be well qualified academically are admitted to the school, according to the board statement.

R. L. Miles Jr., treasurer of the school, and a spokesman for the board, said the school "with its aim to give the state the best education it can, for so long as the application forms for grants are being filled out, the school is in the process of giving the state the best education it can."

A story on the policy of private schools to state tuition grants appeared in The Virginian-Pilot Tuesday. An accompanying photograph, have been Miss Margaret Moore, co-principal of the Carolina Oaks Day School, was of another Miss Moore, The Virginia Pilot regrets this error.

INSURANCE EVIDENCE MUST BE PRESENTED TO RECEIVE LICENSE

New requirements face car owners who apply for license plates in the renewal period which begins March 10.

According to the Division of Motor Vehicles, Virginia car owners must meet one of two requirements to obtain new license plates. Evidence must be furnished that the motor vehicle is insured to meet minimum requirements of the new insurance law or an uninsured motorist's fee of $15.00 in addition to the license fee must be paid.

"The new law applies to any powered vehicle," C. H. Lamb, commissioner of motor vehicles, said. He also made it clear that the payment of the $15.00 uninsured owner's fee does not provide the owner with any form of insurance protection but is payment for the privilege of licensing an uninsured motor vehicle.

Under the present law an insured owner in Virginia is one who has automobile liability insurance which provides limits of at least $10,000/$20,000 bodily injury and $10,000 property damage. The form for the certification of insurance is located on the reverse side of the 1959 owner's registration form which will be mailed from the Division of Motor Vehicles in early March.

This form must be filed out to show the name of the insurance company, the policy number, the effective date of the policy and the name of the insured as it appears on the policy. The certification must also be signed by the applicant.

Lamb suggests that the automobile owner refer to his insurance policy for the information needed on the certification form before he attempts to purchase license plates.

EDITORIAL SPEAKING

Beach Gets High Praise

Virginia Beach was paid a high compliment last week by a member of the Virginia State Police when State Trooper Joe Smith said, "Virginia Beach is the safest place to operate a car in the entire State of Virginia."

This is, indeed, a flattering statement and one that should make every resident of Virginia Beach proud. This is a statement on traffic safety coming from an expert. It is no idle boast since Trooper Smith knows whereof he speaks.

"I don't know of any place in the state that enjoys as good a traffic safety record as you do here," Smith told an audience here last week as safety awards were presented to the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Mosquito Control Commission and to the city incinerator.

Smith stated that Virginia Beach has an outstanding traffic safety record over the years and that this record has been attained despite heavy traffic flow. He said he clocks some 20,000 cars per day between Virginia Beach and the City of Norfolk.

These flattering remarks have been earned and it is a tribute to the motorists and to the Virginia Beach Police Department. The city is proud of its record and officials will continue to try to maintain this fine record.

WHAT OTHERS ARE SAYING

Let Us Tighten Our Belts for the Struggle

Senator A. Willis Robertson, upon his recent well merited elevation to the chairmanship of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, listed as the nation's most important task the maintenance of peace, and second in importance, preserving a stable economy.

Keeping the peace is commonly believed to require military strength equal to that of Russia. This equality is regarded as essential to insure us against aggressive attack by the Communists, who might not hesitate to launch such an attack if they believed they could destroy our ability to strike back. Just what it will require to achieve and maintain this equality is hard to arrive at, but it is likely after full consideration of the matter that more money than the President calls for in his budget will be spent for armaments.

As to the economy, its gravest threat now is inflation. Deficit spending and endless increases in the national debt add to the inflationary pressures. Many believe that President Eisenhower is overly optimistic in his budget estimates of income figures. It is also evident that numbers of Senators and Congressmen are plugging for bigger home expenditures in airfields, housing, slum clearance, aid to depressed areas, power dams and other things commonly listed as "pork barrel" items. Many are favoring these things because they believe their constituents want them.

For the safety of the economy, these costs should be held to the barest minimum. Those who realize the serious implications of inflation and its cruel results should communicate at once with their representatives in the Senate and House and let them know in no uncertain terms that they are against these expenditures at this moment of crisis in world affairs.

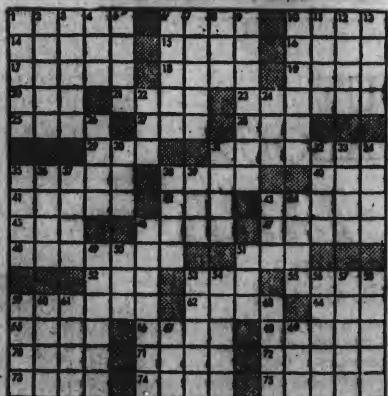

Dr. Philip Jessup in his address in Lee Chapel here last week told of the efficacy of letters from individual constituents to their representatives in Washington. These men are entitled to know how the people at home feel. Senator Robertson has let it be known that he will try to see these expenditures held down. Others in Congress will join him if their constituents demand it.

Americans tightened their belts during World War II and went to work. This is still war time—not hot war, but cold war of the most dangerous kind. We are challenged by a ruthless and powerful antagonist that is determined to win, either by hot war or by besting us economically.

Let us therefore gird ourselves for this struggle, support all moves for economy at home and insist upon adequate armaments until the time comes for realistic disarmament. Meanwhile, not lower taxes, but higher taxes may be in order.

National 4-H Club Week Under Way

By L. Barnes Allen

(Assistant County Agent)

About two and a quarter million boys and girls in rural, urban and suburban areas throughout the United States will join observing National 4-H Club Week from February 25 to March 7. These young people, between 10 and 21 years old, are members of the nation's 90,700 4-H Clubs. Many of Princess Anne county's 634 4-H Club members will take part in the week's activities.

Nationally, 4-H Club Week will be highlighted in Washington, D. C., when six members chosen as delegates will present the annual 4-H Club "Report to the Nation." The report will summarize in stories and pictures outstanding 4-H accomplishments and pay tribute to the thousands of former 4-Hers whose success and attainments now exemplify the high ideals of 4-H achievement, leadership, and good citizenship.

The six members while in the Nation's capital expect to review the report with President Eisenhower at the White House. They also plan to visit Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, C. M. Ferguson, administrator of the Federal Extension Service, and various Senators and Members of Congress on Capitol Hill.

The purpose of the 4-H Clubs is to help boys and girls develop into better and more useful citizens. 4-H offers opportunities for doing this by providing experiences in project work, contests, and other activities. For example in Princess Anne the club members carry 1916 projects through which they learn to improve the looks of their home grounds, make home safer, improve family diet through growing a garden, canning or freezing and selection and preparation of food.

4-H members in Princess Anne County compete in numerous contests. Some of these are Baby Beef Show, Sweet Potato Show, Market Hog Show, Public Speaking Contest, Talent Contest, Dress Review and other contests relating to individual projects.

Clinic Director Speaks Tonight

Dr. Ulin W. Leavelle, director of the McCutney Reading Clinic at the University of Virginia and editor of the Golden Rule Series textbooks, will speak to the parents at Friends School tonight. Dr. Leavelle will speak on "Reading in Today's Schools for Tomorrow's World."

Dr. Leavelle's aim to develop character along with reading skills has been successfully carried out in his textbooks where a child "discovers moral principles instead of having them thrown at him." These school books contain stories, biographical sketches, poems and plays, each based on a moral theme. As the child is learning to read he is also learning to choose right from wrong. Dr. Leavelle has used new methods and type of execution to carry out the same moral training that the late William Holmes McGuffey presented in his famous textbooks of the late eighties.

In addition to Dr. Leavelle's authorship, he has been a pioneer in developing reading skills. In 1908, while at George Peabody College in Nashville, Tenn., he held the first reading conference ever held in this country. He has promoted methods of teaching reading which develop a student's ability to read rapidly and with comprehension. He has obtained remarkable results with boys and girls who have been slow readers, using among other devices the reading accelerator, the hand-eye coordinator, and the Iowa Reading Film.

Dr. Leavelle has degrees from the University of Mississippi, George Peabody College, and Georgetown College. He has taught and lectured in Universities in many parts of the United States in addition to being Dean of the Department of Education at North Carolina Baptist College in Shantung, China.

Windy Gets "Colored"

A stranger walked into Judge Babin's shop the other day wearing one of those "Colored" coats. When the boys saw the funny velvet collar, they broke off laughing.

The stranger wanted to know how to wear it. He asked his brother. The boys told him to wear it like a "dog" coat. Then, on his way, he walked over to Windy.

"I believe you got my coat, didn't you?" he said. "Well, what I want you to do is to put it on."

Brooks Hays, Rev. Ben L. Rose To Close Mission

Mr. Brooks Hays, President of the Southern Baptist Convention, and the Rev. Ben L. Rose, Union Seminary, Richmond, will preach at the final evening session of the Second Annual Preaching Mission at the Convention Center on Saturday evening, March 7 at 8 o'clock.

Scheduling of these two men, eminent in their respective fields, will be a most fitting climax to what has been an equally effective and helpful preaching mission as that of last year.

The Rev. Mr. Rose is Professor of Homiletics at Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, having held this position since 1956. He has held pastorates in Wilmington, N.C. and Bristol, Va., prior to his assumption of his present academic role. His pastorate in the Bristol Church was for a period of 11 years, during which time his effectiveness was reflected in the esteem and regard in which he was held by that Virginia community.

Mr. Hays, though not an ordained minister in the Baptist Church, has been a most energetic and vital spokesman for his denomination. The earnestness and sincerity to which he addresses himself on matters of his church is reflected in the high position and post to which the representatives of the Baptist Church have placed him.

Mrs. Leslie Swain, former president of the American Baptist Convention, and Dr. Russell J. Flumbert, President of DePaul University, will be the speakers at the afternoon mass meeting, Sunday, March 8 at 3 o'clock, which will officially close this Second Annual Preaching Mission.

Children, Please Play Away From Traffic

"WINNER, 14TH AAA TRAFFIC SAFETY POSTER CONTEST"

Parents were urged today by the Tidewater Automobile Association to caution their children against playing in the street or highway.

Last year, some 2,600 school-age youngsters were killed in traffic accidents, said the AAA Club, and many of these mishaps could have been prevented if the victims had been taught to play away from traffic.

Mr. Frank Cox, local director, Tidewater Automobile Association, emphasized that children absorbed in play seldom are alert to the dangers of traffic, and as a result, they become sitting ducks for tragedy unless their recreation area is safely away from the street or highway.

"Most schools have playgrounds, in which youngsters can play," said Mr. Cox. "Parents should encourage their children to make use of these areas."

A safety poster on the theme, "Play Away From Traffic," is now being distributed to schools in Virginia Beach as part of the region's monthly safety education program of Tidewater Automobile Association.

The new poster, designed by March Salo, a 16-year-old student in the 11th grade of Arroya High School, San Lorenzo, Calif., was a first prize winner in the American Automobile Association's 1957 National Traffic Safety Poster Contest.

Freddie White Wins Award

Freddie White has been in Vocational Agriculture during his four years in High School. He has completed three years work and his records show his main interest to be in sweet potatoes, corn, soybeans, hogs and Irish potatoes. Freddie raised 250, 100-pound bags of Irish potatoes on two acres and cleared $425.40 profit. This amount represents two-thirds of the profit made on 25 acres grown by the entire Chapter. Freddie retailed his potatoes direct to the consumer. It was more trouble, but he was well paid. 300 bushels of sweet potatoes from 2 acres paid $452.00. In addition he raised 5 acres of corn, 5 acres of soybeans and one acre of snap beans for a total profit on his third year of farming is $1,659.55. For three years work he has a profit of $2,298.80.

This award is made possible by the Future Farmers Foundation. I am happy to present Freddie with this medal and award of Chapter Star Farmer. Congratulations and best wishes for your continued success.

Impala Sport Coupe—like every Chevy—has Safety Plate Glass all around.

Chevy stops quickest... goes farthest on a gallon!

Chevy showed the best brakes of the leading low-priced three in a test of repeated stops at highway speeds conducted and certified by NASCAR*. Chevy also won over the other two in a NASCAR economy run—with the highest gas mileage for 6's and V8's at cruising speeds of just over 55 miles an hour.

Here's a car that knows how to get the most out of a gallon. And it's the only car in its field to bring you hydraulic valve lifters in all popular engines—6 and V8. This means smoother, quieter performance for you.

There are many other advances just as fundamental as the efficiency of Chevrolet's engines and the dependability of its new brakes (with more lining area than any other low-priced car). But why not stop by your dealer's and let Chevy do its own sweet talking!

NATIONAL 4-H WEEK
Virginia's 4-H Club members, over 70,000 strong, are taking time out this week to review their accomplishments and make plans for the future. The occasion is the National 4-H Club Week, Feb. 28-March 7.

Emphasis this year will be placed upon salutes to the 20 million 4-H alumni for their accomplishments in various professions and occupations. Many of these people will be recognized throughout the state and nation.

Six representative 4-H club members and two successful 4-H alumni will spend part of National 4-H Club Week in Washington giving the annual "Report to the Nation." They will appear on various radio and television programs and in press interviews to tell about 4-H accomplishments in the past year and about plans for the current year.

4-H Club members carry on widely varied projects in farming, homemaking, community service and other activities. They raise livestock, and poultry, grow gardens, and field crops, conserve the soil, sew, cook, and improve their homes in rural and non-rural areas. For a well-rounded life, they enjoy play and recreation as well as interesting, worthwhile work. Character development and good citizenship are their most significant goals.

The 4-H Club plan has circled the globe, the idea having been adapted to suit varying needs and conditions in more than 50 countries. One way people in other lands become acquainted with the 4-H program is through the International Farm Youth Exchange, now 11 years old. Last year 116 young American men and women, including Shirley Humphries from Princess Anne County, took part in the program of family, farm, and community activities in other countries.

Again we salute the 4-H members, leaders, and alumni throughout our county, state and nation.

HOOD SOYBEANS AVAILABLE
The new soybean "Hood" may be purchased from seed stores as early as the Norfolk area this Spring. This bean has shown all indications of being superior to the Lee or Ogden.

The Hood is of very high quality, having a complete yellow seed coat, with good seed holding capacity. It matures 9 days earlier than Lee, and 2 days earlier than Ogden. It yielded higher than Ogden or Lee in 16 out of 25 tests in 5 locations in Virginia.

Approximately 350 acres were planted for increase by Virginia Crop Improvement Association in 1958. See your seed dealer now for a few bushels of Hood.

VIRGINIA DARE VISITS EASTERN SHORE

The Virginia Dare Soil Conservation District of Princess Anne and Norfolk Counties went to the Eastern Shore for the Area 8 Soil Conservation meeting. Traveling with the County Agent were Mr. A. E. Roach, Chairman of the Board, John Crenshaw, Norfolk County SCS Technician, E. L. Wood, Norfolk County Agent, and Mr. H. E. Tutthill SCS Soil Scientist.

EXTENSION PROGRAM PLANNED

The Extension Commodity Committees have completed planning the Extension program for 1959. The climax of all the planning committees was a dinner meeting sponsored by the Princess Anne Farm Bureau. At this Agricultural Council meeting the chairman of each committee reported on the activities to be carried out in 1959. Next week we are going to discuss all of these plans as well as report on some of the accomplishments in 1958.

MONEY CAN BE MADE OR LOST

Have you even stopped to think that you could make money on your corn crop or lose money just by selecting the analysis of fertilizers. Well, you can.

This year study the prices of analysis very carefully, and pick that analysis that will give you the plant food you need the cheapest. Many times several dollars can be saved on each acre by a careful selection.

LIME PLUS FERTILIZER BOOSTS CORN YIELD

"Fertilizer and lime complement each other in the soil and neither alone is as effective in crop production as the two in proper combination."

Lime improves fertility efficiency in the soil by making phosphate more readily available. It increases the availability of molybdenum, and the activity of soil bacteria which aid nitrogen fixation and help decompose organic matter. In addition, it counteracts acidity, reducing the solubility of substances which may be toxic to plants, as well as furnishing calcium and magnesium needed by plant and micro-organisms.

In a recent experiment on the effect of lime-use and soil pH on corn production, it was found that unlimed soil with pH 4.6 seriously restricted root development. As a result stalk, leaf and ear development was also poor, even where the equivalent of 1,000 lbs. of a 10-10-10 fertilizer was used. Yields obtained in this test were approximately 35 bushels of corn per acre.

Using the same fertilizer and rate of application, yields of approximately 100 bushels of corn per acre were obtained where the soil was limed to produce a pH of 6.0 or above. Thus, for the addition of 3.5 tons of ground limestone per acre, corn yields were increased by about 65 bushels per acre.

At $6 per ton for the limestone spread on the soil and only $1 per bushel for the corn produced, a gross return of $44 per acre could have been realized in this situation. Crops that would follow on this soil would also yield better, giving a greater return from the use of lime.

LIME NEEDS OF VARIOUS SOILS AIM OF VIRGINIA TEST

Lime needs of various types of soils found extensively in Virginia are being determined in a study being conducted by the VPI Agricultural Experiment Station.

In the study, 13 "on the farm" rate-of-liming tests were begun in the Spring of 1954 and are still in progress. Ground dolomitic limestone of average fineness was applied to plots laid out on private farms. The farmers continue to crop the areas with their normal production practices except that no lime is applied to the experimental areas. Geographically the sites range from the coastal plain, over the Piedmont, and into the limestone valleys of Virginia. Texturally the soils range from light sands to heavy loams.

Regular soil samplings since the lime was provided a chronological picture of increases in soil pH, as well as increases in available calcium and magnesium. It is apparent that the higher the rate of liming, the faster the pH increase and the higher it goes.

To date in the study, several indications have been noted. Lime is a long-lasting soil improvement. No appreciable decrease in soil pH has occurred after four years. Some of the heavier soils limed at the higher rates are still increasing in pH. To reach the pH recommended for alfalfa, heavier soils need about twice the amount of lime as do lighter soils. Heavier soils contain about twice the amount of available calcium and magnesium as do lighter soils at a given pH level. To raise the pH of an unlimed soil, applying smaller amounts of lime at shorter intervals is probably a better way than applying a large amount in one dose.

In another test at the Experiment Station, agronomists are trying to determine the lime needs for alfalfa on Tidewater silt loam, one of the most lime-deficient soils found in Virginia. The benefits of lime at rates from 250 pounds per acre to 16 tons per acre are under study. The test, which has been underway for three years, so far has shown that fertilization, however generous, can not be effectively substituted for lime with alfalfa. Both yield and longevity of the stand are associated with level of lime. The researchers have found that 250 pounds of lime will only start growth of alfalfa, 500 pounds will last about one year, and 1 ton about two years. They expect that one ton will be effective about three years, two tons for four years, four tons for about six years, eight tons for about eight years, and sixteen tons for about 12 years. Slight-but consistent superiority of dolomitic limestone over the siliceous type has been shown by yield of higher chemical reactivity of the calcic type.

NEW FARM RECORD TO BE DEVELOPED IN STATE

A new approach to farm management, with emphasis on an "Electronic farm record system," will get underway soon in Virginia. Spearheaded by the VPI agricultural economics department, the program will feature a method of record keeping which will expedite the processing and analysis of farm records by electronic means. The system will also provide a source of information for research and education, and will give individual farmers who take part a means of determining what adjustments are needed on their farms.

County Agents throughout the state will be trained in the new system, and will be primarily responsible for selecting and working with farmers, and forwarding records to the department of agriculture, economics, for summary and analyses. The department will return records to the county agent with suggestions for business adjustments.

The electronic system is partially experimental and is being introduced in cooperation with the Experiment Station as a research project in farm management. After two or three years of operation, it is expected that permanent arrangements can be made.

The new system is established with a "basic core," and from this core can be inserted additional and more detailed enterprise records. The basic core consists of three parts, farm expenses, farm income, and farm inventory.

Boat Accident Report Program Announced

A new accident reporting program for boatmen was initiated by the Coast Guard on March 10, 1959. Under the new program all accidents involving motorboats or pleasure craft occurring on Federal waters must be reported to the Coast Guard where they result in loss of life, injury to any person causing incapacitation for over 72 hours, or in damage to property in excess of $100.

If loss of life results from an accident, a report must be made within 48 hours. All other accidents must be reported within five days. Every report must be made in writing and submitted to the Coast Guard Marine Inspection Office nearest the place of the accident.

In the event that more than one boat is involved in an accident, a separate report must be submitted by the operator of each boat. If the operator is not physically capable of making the report, it should be made by the boat owner or other person familiar with the facts of the accident.

A Coast Guard Form (CG-3805), "Boating Accident Report," has been designed to simplify and minimize the writing required by an operator completing the form. The forms may be obtained at all Coast Guard Marine Inspection Offices and other shore facilities.

Information obtained from the reports required by the Federal Boating Act of 1958 will be used by the Coast Guard in compiling statistics on boating accidents. Analysis of these statistics, once compiled, should indicate measures which best could be used to enhance boating safety.

Young Sailor Loses Life in County Mishap

Princess Anne County had its second traffic fatality within 28 hours, Monday when a sailor's car went out of control between Oceana and London Bridge.

A sports coupe driven by Raymond N. Mack, USN, 21, left the road and hit a telephone guy wire 204 feet away.

The car ran on another 150 feet, then passed under a cable, which decapitated Mack. It came to a stop more than 60 yards beyond the cable. The car was not seriously damaged, the police said.

Sunday, Vance Swindell Caraway Jr., 610 W. 31st St., Norfolk, died in a two-car collision on Rt. 60 near Virginia Beach.

Mack, who was stationed at the Naval Air Station, Oceana, was reported to have been from Harlingen, Tex.

The accident was investigated by Princess Anne County patrolman Leo Palmer.

County Finding City Boys Not Easily Changed

You can take the boy out of the city, as a glance down almost any housing development street will attest, but how do you take the city out of the boy?

This is the pesky and delicate problem facing the Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors and its executive secretary, Richard J. Webbon.

City born youngsters now living in project homes in the northern part of Princess Anne County don't usually understand rural problems. As a result, kids newly transplanted to the wide open spaces have galloped across freshly seeded lawns, tinkered disastrously with expensive machinery, harassed livestock and caused considerable damage to such crops as cabbages, potatoes and strawberries.

Although statutes are on the books which can be enforced—laws pertaining to trespassing on private property—those concerned are reluctant to resort to them.

It has been suggested that parents might curb their offspring's youthful exuberance. If not, an all-out deurbanization campaign for small fry may get underway under some other sponsorship. However, some say the establishment of a planned recreation program should do much to relieve the problem.

Girl Scouts to Celebrate 47th Birthday Today

Girl Scouts of Virginia Beach, their leaders, parents and friends will hold a Birthday Tea in honor of the 47th Anniversary of the organization in America. The celebration will take place on Thursday, March 12, from 3:30 to 5:30 at the New Girl Scout Hut in the Woods. The Hut is located at the west end of 13th street in Virginia Beach.

Mrs. Sterling Farley, Virginia Beach neighborhood chairman, is in charge of arrangements. Serving on her committee are: Mrs. Harold, Danklefs-Decorations; Mrs. W. M. Ray, refreshments; and Mrs. John Tucker, exhibits.

Senior troop 222 will serve as the clean-up committee.

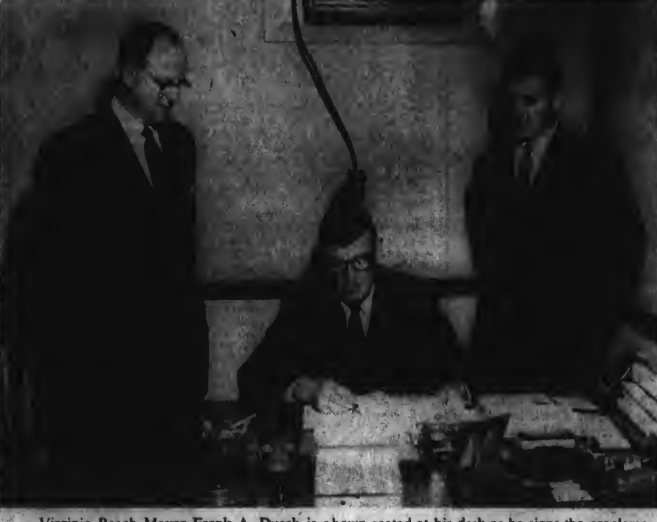

It is hoped that each of the 28 Girl Scout Troops of Virginia Beach will attend during the afternoon, as well as interested adults and sponsoring groups.

BEACH TAXI INSTALL TWO-WAY RADIO IN UNITS

A two-way radio system has been installed in taxicabs throughout Virginia Beach, according to an announcement this week by the Beach Taxi Service.

The new system has been installed in order to offer more efficient service, a company spokesman said.

Virginia Beach Garden Tour Set April 21st

On Tuesday, April 21st, during Historic Garden Week, the Virginia Beach Garden Club will open six private homes and gardens of varied types—old and new—all of which are being opened for the first time to the public.

The homes will be open from 10 A.M. to 5:30 P.M., and information and tickets may be obtained from the Cape Colony Club, the Chamber of Commerce, or any of the homes on the tour.

The homes to be opened are: The residence of Mrs. William S. Wilder, 32nd Street on Crystal Lake, a fascinating, impressive Virginia Beach landmark. Huge, turreted, many roomed, this grey stone home was built at the turn of the century and formerly was known as the "Mansury Mansion".

Mrs. Virginia Glenan Slason's home on 76th Street. Only a block and a half from the ocean, with its private garden and swimming pool and natural live oaks, it is an inspiring example of what taste and discernment can do with an old "Beach Cottage".

The modern one-story home in Birdneck Point of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Lambie is designed for enjoyment of year-round casual resort-suburban living.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Herrman Cohn is a one-and-a-half-story home.

County Opposing Consolidation Of Agricultural Agency Here

A delegation from Princess Anne County went to Richmond Wednesday to register its opposition to the consolidation of the Princess Anne Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Agency with the Norfolk County Agricultural Agency.

The board of supervisors held a special meeting early this week and adopted a resolution on the matter, according to Richard J. Webbon, executive secretary. The ASC office is under the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and present plans are to consolidate the two county offices on or after April 1.

The supervisors' resolution follows: "Whereas the consolidation of the Princess Anne Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Agency with the Norfolk County Agricultural Agency would create a hardship on Princess Anne participants in the Agricultural Conservation Program, and

"Whereas, the proposed location for the central office is far removed from the business hub of Princess Anne County, thus decreasing the service to Princess Anne County farmers, and

"Whereas, we feel that in order for the USDA to be of maximum service to farm people all agricultural agencies servicing the county should be located within the county at a central location, and

"Whereas, at present this county is providing a modern building and area for all agricultural agencies, and

"Whereas, these agencies can better work together to serve the people of Princess Anne County from their present central location,

"Now therefore be it resolved that the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee reconsider the action taken to consolidate the Princess Anne office and to continue to operate the Princess Anne office as it has been in the past."

Sailors Fined Nearly $2,000 in Shooting Spree

Two sailors who went on a shooting spree in Virginia Beach's business district were fined a total of $1,792 in police court here Monday. Their escapade resulted in an estimated $6,000 damage to plate glass windows.

John E. Roodhouse, USN, 22, was fined $225 and costs on each of 27 counts of destroying private property and another $25 for discharging an air rifle in the city.

Charles R. Jones, USN, was fined $23 for each of 27 counts of aiding and abetting in the destruction of private property and also for driving with improper equipment.

Thirty-day jail sentences imposed on each count against both men were suspended by Judge Eugene V. Gresham in Virginia Beach Police Court on the condition that the men stay out of Virginia Beach. Both are stationed at Dam Neck.

Their attorney, Richard G. Brydges, who had his plate glass windows damaged in the target practice which extended almost from 7th street to 38th street along Atlantic avenue, had this to say on behalf of his clients:

"It's a question of their trying to be men too fast. They got hold of whiskey or beer. I don't know what we can do. They are in guided missile work. They read in some men's magazine that manhood is improved by an air rifle because you can see the trajectory."

The two were captured shortly after 11 p.m. last Tuesday as one of them was drawing a bead on a plate glass window in the ABC store, police said. An open bottle of Scotch was in a car nearby. Making the arrest were Detective William Hall and Patrolman William Moscovitz, John Staudman, and E. A. "Sammy" Cullenhouse.

Both men appeared in court Monday and were freed on $1,000 bond each.

"I've never had anything like this in 45 years on the bench," Judge Gresham commented. "I understand the money value is up to $6,000. I don't know if this is true or not."

Neither defendant testified. Only Roodhouse was actually charged with firing the air rifle.

NOW, THEREFORE, as Mayor of the City of Virginia Beach, I do hereby proclaim the week of March 16 to 22, 1959, as American Legion Birthday Week and do call on all citizens and organizations to join in paying tribute to the good works of The American Legion as a token of our appreciation of the wartime and peacetime services of our own Legionnaires.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the seal of the City of Virginia Beach this 27th day of February in the year of Our Lord 1959.

Virginia Beach was well represented at the recent Fire Department Instructors Conference held in Memphis, Tennessee, and several local representatives let the national fire group know about Virginia Beach's historic outdoor drama, "The Confederacy." If you look closely you can see the Confederate hats on three gentlemen on the third row in the picture above. They are Councilman Frank D. Tarrall Jr., Vernon Stevens and Virginia Beach Fire Chief E. B. "Bubba" Bayne.

'Confederacy' Tryouts Will Begin March 18; Opening Set for June 22

"The Confederacy," which had its premier season last summer at Virginia Beach, today announced the schedule of tryouts for the 1959 season which opens June 22 at the Robert E. Lee Amphitheatre and plays through Labor Day, September 7th.

The announcement was made by Ed Loesslin, director of the 1959 production, who is currently appearing in the Broadway production of "The Boy Friend." Loesslin will arrive in Norfolk Tuesday, March 17th and hold tryouts at Virginia Beach Wednesday, March 18th and in Norfolk Thursday, March 19th. The exact time and place for all tryouts will be announced this week.

While many cast members from the 1958 production are expected to return, there are a number of major roles open for the coming season's production. Director Loesslin is particularly interested in auditioning candidates for Robert E. Lee, the central character; Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederacy; States of America; Stonewall Jackson; J. E. B. Stuart; the Lee daughters; and some other 50 acting parts that are to be filled.

"The Confederacy," which is produced by the Tidewater Historic Drama Association, under the direction of General Manager and Executive Producer John Caudle, will attempt to have an all-Virginia cast this season if at all possible. Therefore, tryouts have been scheduled for Richmond, Hanover, Arlington and Washington the latter part of this month.

It is suggested that all applicants for the 1959 production write to "The Confederacy," Box 566, Virginia Beach, Virginia, giving a brief outline of their prior experience. Tryout appointments can be made by calling Garden 8-4342. Since "The Confederacy" is played out of doors in a 1500 seat amphitheatre, a major requisite for all speaking parts is the ability of the actor to project his voice and personality in this outdoor setting.

"The Confederacy" was written by Pulitzer Prize winning dramatist Paul Green and is concerned with the life of Robert E. Lee during the war years 1861-1865. Musical director Willard Robb will announce audition dates for singers in the next few days. Performances will be given nightly except Sunday at the Robert E. Lee Amphitheatre at Virginia Beach.

NATO Will Celebrate Tenth Anniversary April 4; Military Alliance Is Effective

Ten years ago, on April 4, 1949, the United States broke a tradition that had existed since the foundation of the republic. Despite the gloomy predictions of a minority of the United States joined a peacetime military alliance—NATO, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

In the past decade both critics and supporters of NATO have had the opportunity to assess its accomplishments and to decide whether the United States was wise or foolish in entering the alliance. As it happens, the voices of the critics are strangely quiet today. Indeed, some of them may now be heard on the opposite side, whispering that NATO really does not go far enough in its realization and its aims.

To understand what NATO is and has been, one must try to recapture the gloomy spirit of 1949, the year of NATO's foundation. At that time the Soviet Union maintained a tremendous military establishment and a wartime industrial effort—the United States had demobilized and disarmed after World War II and all of its friends and allies in Europe had done the same. The free world, having survived the most frightful of all wars, then assumed that lasting peace was finally at hand. The United States had been established and all responsible men fondly hoped that future international disputes, no matter how serious, could be settled by peaceful negotiations within the organization. In one sense, the war had been fought to establish the United Nations. At long last there had appeared on earth a powerful international body that could maintain the peace and advance the gentle hopes of mankind. But reasonable men reckoned without the aspiration of Soviet Communist domination. The Soviets had no intention of demobilizing or disarming. The Soviets had no intention of utilizing the U. N. as a forum for honest negotiation. The Soviets had only the driving, despotic ambition set forth by Lenin and Stalin—to expand across the free world until all men lay subject to Soviet power.

Apologists for the Soviet Union contended that the Soviets did not intend world domination. As the excuses went, the Soviets merely intended to live in peaceful "co-existence" with the rest of the world. But that was the "cocktail" of the lamb with the lion. During and before World War II the Soviet Union had seized parts of Finland and all of Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia. If the Soviet Union really wished "co-existence," might she not free these nations at war's end? But instead, the Soviet Union tightened her grip on them and set about engulfing other small nations within her grasp. By establishing fraudulent "people's governments" in Poland, Bulgaria, Rumania, East Germany and Albania—governments which never represented the will of the people but only that of a small Communist minority—backed by Soviet arms, the Soviet Union seized all of these countries within a short time. In 1947 Hungary was taken over by the Communists, and in the following year, Czechoslovakia. In 1948 the Soviet dominated Communist parties made their bid to topple the governments of France and Italy by Communist strikes and riots. By that time even the most naive apologist for the Soviet Union realized that the Soviet Union was not "co-existing" but was moving toward an alliance with the democracies of Europe. Led by such men as Arthur Vandenberg, the U. S. Senate passed a resolution enabling this country to depart from its traditional isolationism and to enter an alliance—provided that the terms of the alliance did not impinge on American freedom of action, and that the members of the alliance were willing to help themselves and not rely exclusively on the wealth and strength of the United States.

In 1948 the United States joined 11 other free nations in NATO, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The partner nations were Great Britain, France, Canada, Belgium, The Netherlands, Denmark, Portugal, Italy, Luxembourg and Norway. (In 1952 Greece and Turkey became members of the alliance, and in 1955 the Federal Republic of Germany.) All of these nations pledged that in the event of an attack upon any one of them, whether in Europe or North America, would be regarded as an attack upon all and would be resisted by all. But the purpose of the alliance, although defensive, was not only military. The partners also pledged themselves to work together in the political, social, educational, scientific and economic fields. Thus for the first time in history a large concentration of nations with a common heritage, a common love of liberty, religion and law, a shared cultural tradition, banded together in peacetime for their common security and their common good.

From the day of the signing of the NATO Treaty a great change seemed to take place in the fortunes of the Soviet Union. Communist's explosive advances into Europe and Asia came to a halt. In the decade since 1949, not one square inch of European territory has been added to the Soviet empire. The Soviet Union has not dared to attack or subvert one more free democracy because of NATO's cardinal principle — If one is picked on, all come to its aid. Moreover, the NATO democracies have steadily grown stronger since the signing of the Treaty by means of self-help and mutual aid. Their economies have improved tremendously, their standards of living are higher, they collaborate in technical and scientific fields, politically they have achieved a greater degree of coordination through consultation than any allies in world history.

Unlike most alliances of the past, NATO is purely defensive in nature. NATO does not contemplate an attack upon anyone anywhere at any time, but on the other hand is fully determined to repulse an attack upon any of its members. NATO has repeatedly declared itself in favor of disarmament — at a meeting of the NATO of government in 1957, the following resolution was made: "We continue firmly to stand for comprehensive and controlled disarmament, which we believe can be reached by stages. In spite of disappointments we remain ready to discuss any reasonable proposal to reach this goal and to lay a solid foundation for a durable peace. This is the only way to dispel the anxieties arising from the armaments race."

Take all free democratic institutions. NATO is controlled by civilians rather than military men. Its guiding body is the North Atlantic Council, a civilian body headed by Secretary General Paul-Henri Spaak. Beneath this Council are a number of committees, including a Committee of Political Advisors, and a Military Committee. Beneath the Military Committee are the heads of the various national commands, of which perhaps the most important is that of the Supreme Commander, Allied Powers, Europe—a post now held by General Lauris Norstad of the United States, (and formerly by General Dwight D. Eisenhower), and that of the Supreme Allied Commander Atlantic, Admiral Jerauld Wright.

NATO in no way conflicts with the United Nations. The U. N. Charter recognizes "the inherent right of individual or collective self-defense" of its members, and hence their right to join a defensive alliance. In its turn, the North Atlantic Treaty specifically acknowledges that its existence does not affect "in any way the rights and obligations" of members of the United Nations or of the primary responsibility of the Security Council for the maintenance of international peace and security. NATO and the U. N. are not rivals. Both serve the cause of peace.

On its 10th anniversary NATO stands as the hope of the free world. Bitterly rebuffed by the Soviets—a "larger might" with a "tough policeman"—and the target bomb had made it clear that only a few explosions, not a barrage of thousands, could destroy a civilization. Moreover, the United States had begun to realize that its economic life was inextricably tied to that of Europe. Europe's markets, it was realized, were of great importance to the U. S. Without the raw materials supplied by Europe and Europe's overseas associates the United States could no longer keep its industries functioning. Without Europe's manpower and brainpower the United States might soon find itself frighteningly alone in a hostile world. Above all, the rich traditions of the oldest, and most developed civilization of the world, constituting as they do the foundation of our own civilization, formed a bond of understanding and kinship between Europe and North America.

Consequently in 1948 the United States moved toward an alliance with the democracies of Europe. Led by such men as Arthur Vandenberg, the U. S. Senate passed a resolution enabling this country to depart from its traditional isolationism and to enter an alliance—provided that the terms of the alliance did not impinge on American freedom of action, and that the members of the alliance were willing to help themselves and not rely exclusively on the wealth and strength of the United States.

Your Social Security

The 1958 Amendments to the Social Security Act provide one change regulating the amount that a beneficiary may earn in a month and still be eligible to receive a monthly benefit. The $1200 retirement test remains unchanged, but beginning with 1959, a worker will receive a check for every month that he does not earn more than $100. In contrast to the previous limitation of $80.00 a month.

Many people are critical of the limitation on earnings and argue that some people receive benefits even though they have substantial income from investment sources. The Congress, during the last session, considered the modification of the retirement test, and after much deliberation, it was decided that the principles of social security determined the need for a retirement test. The basic idea of social security is that workers, unemployed individuals, and employees pay into a trust fund during periods of employment. Benefits are paid to the insured individual or his survivors when there is a loss of earnings due to retirement, disability, or death. Social security insurance is obtained only through employment or self-employment, and any income derived from investment sources is never considered either before or after retirement as a requirement for social security benefits. It would therefore be penalized for having an income derived from sources other than earnings.

An amendment for the retirement test is the increased tax rate that would be imposed upon 75,000,000 persons to pay retirement benefits to individuals earning substantial incomes and who have not incurred any earnings loss through retirement or disability. Readers who would like copies of the pamphlet giving information on the changes in the Social Security Law may write to Social Security Administration, 220 W. Brambleton Avenue, Norfolk, Va.

of repeated and feverish Soviet attempts to weaken or dislodge it, NATO remains the great and indispensable bulwark against aggression in Europe or North America. But as Secretary General Spaak made clear in a recent visit to the U. S., NATO still lacks many things to make it a perfect organization. What is chiefly lacking is the confident backing of public opinion which, aware of the importance of its role, is determined to give NATO its active support. Because NATO is more than a military alliance, it is not enough to support it by supporting arms budgets or the assignment of troops. NATO must be strengthened by their common heritage of freedom where their real power lies. This heritage must be improved and magnified by closer international cooperation, so that the free world may draw from it increased determination to stand firm. Any effort that furthers the interchange of ideas—international scholarships, conferences of scientists and legislators, teachers and businessmen, all attempts to draw the NATO nations closer together in their common culture—helps to advance the cause of NATO. Supported by an enlightened public opinion, NATO can make possible a decent and secure future for all men.

Lynnhaven Club Holds Meeting

The Lynnhaven Garden Club met Tuesday, March 8, at the Lynnhaven Presbyterian Church at 120 p.m. with the new president Mrs. F. H. Strickland presiding. Mrs. W. F. Rountree spoke and showed slides on "Birds in Gardens". An interesting point was that Starlings were killing off the Blue Birds of the area—the suggestion making the opening in Blue Bird Houses 14 inches in diameter—this would prevent the entrance of the highly larger Starling during the Blue Bird's nesting time.

The Scott Rug Company presented an interesting film on "Rug Care". The three easy rules to remember are daily care with the carpet sweeper, weekly vacuuming and annual professional cleaning. Ribbons were won by Mrs. John Potter, Mrs. C. J. Owens, Mrs. R. Payne, Jr., Mrs. W. E. Smith, Mrs. Dean Potter, Mrs. H. E. Hill, Mrs. Curtis Reid, Mrs. H. H. French, Mrs. H. E. Keller, Mrs. Fred Lemmon, Mrs. Walter G. Graham, Mrs. O. E. Tinsley, Mrs. F. W. Cox and Mrs. Fred Clark.

The USS Langley was placed in commission as the Navy's first aircraft carrier at Norfolk, Va., March 21, 1922.

SeaBees Celebrate 17th Anniversary

NAS Oceana, Va. — SeaBees attached to the Public Works Department at the Oceana Naval Air Station celebrated their 17th Anniversary on March 8th.

During informal ceremonies held at their Headquarters, Captain E.G. Konrad, USN, Station Commanding Officer, congratulated them on the occasion and on the job they are doing aboard this Master Jet Base.

Although there are only six officers and 27 enlisted personnel attached to the SeaBees aboard this station, their services range from Supply Officer down to heavy-duty equipment operators, bus and truck drivers, and construction on projects which come from non-appropriated funds. Their latest project is the Hobby Shop, when completed, will house a tool issue room, Ham Radio Club, radio repair shop, woodworking shop, and a ceramics room.

Although the first Construction Mobile Battalion (SeaBees) was formed on Dec. 28th, 1941, they were not officially an integral part of the Navy until March 5, 1942. Prior to their formation, all construction work on overseas bases was handled by civilian contractors.

Throughout WWII, the SeaBees earned their motto of "Can Do," with their construction of airfields and bases throughout the Pacific. One of their most outstanding feats was the construction of floating piers and barges during the Normandy invasion in which materials and personnel were off-loaded from ships for the invasion of Europe.

GOLDEN YEARS CLUB MEETS THURSDAY

The Golden Years Club of Virginia Beach will meet Thursday, March 11 at the First Presbyterian Church at 2 p.m. The new officers for the ensuing year are President, Charles Nagel, Secretary, Mrs. Emma Bertok and Mrs. Vivian Wilson.

We cordially ask all members to bring their old Christmas cards to the meeting. Visitors are welcome and we invite those 60 or over to come and join the club.

Sunday night, March 3, the Episcopal Church Fellowship met at the church and then their program went to the Preaching Mission at the Dome. About 30 people from the Fellowship attended. They only had one speaker that night, Dr. Thomas, who gave a very interesting talk which was enjoyed by all.

News and Views of Aragona Village

By ELAIE HARVEY

ARAGONA VILLAGE LITTLE THEATRE

Mr. Larry Marshall, who so successfully played the male lead of "PENNYWISE," the first play recently produced by the Aragona Village Little Theatre, has been selected to serve as Publicity Director of its next production, "MURDER, SHE SAYS," a mystery comedy in three acts, by James Reach.

The play is scheduled for the first week in May and tryouts will be held at 7:30 p.m. March 21st, at the Aragona Elementary School. The cast will consist of six men and six women and those persons who might be interested in trying out for any of the following parts are urged to come forward. They may call Mr. Larry Marshall, OY 7-4900, or report for tryout at the school.

Mr. Marshall reported that the response received from the public and the enthusiasm shown in the production of "PENNYWISE" by all those who took part in its production, among whom were Mrs. Shirley Emerson, Mrs. Phyllis Ingram, Mrs. Wm. Lunt, Mrs. Stevie Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Doucette, Mr. Bob Keech who gave a splendid performance as comedian, and Mr. Warner Twyford, who served as Director, and is well known as Entertainment Editor and one of the foremost critics in the Tidewater area, has stimulated great interest in this second production. However, it is hoped that there will be a good turnout of volunteers for tryouts for the parts, as well as those might be interested in helping in any capacity such as prop men on the stage and behind the scenes.

BROWNIE AND GIRL SCOUTS

In celebration of Girl Scout Week the girls of Brownie Troops Nos. 424, 502, 205 and 219; and of Girl Scout Troops Nos. 333, 361, 476, 242 and 543, decorated a window display in the Aragona Beauty Salon located in the Aragona Shopping Center.

Many different subjects were represented in the display, among which were specimens of various handicrafts; drama; first aid; a camp site (camping) plan; a knot board; and one particularly attractive display was the "International Friendship Ring" consisting of colorful paper dolls.

BOY SCOUTS AND CUB SCOUTS

Scoutmaster, Lt. Commander J. Blake, Moranville, reported that Boy Scout Troop No. 379 are on a one day camping trip Saturday, March 7th. The troop pitched camp on the Oliver Farm near Bayside, Virginia, where one major activity was cooking — for the purpose of advancement, 2nd class, and where, afterward, everyone enjoyed the "groceries".

The camp-out was considered a genuine success. Scoutmaster Moranville also reported that Den No. 2 of Cub Pack No. 279 recently went aboard the submarine, U.S.S. Scuba, as guests of Chief Jones, father of one of the scouts.

Cub Pack Master, Mr. Carl M. Tignor, announced that there will be a Cub Pack meeting on March 18th, at 7:30 p.m., at the Aragona Elementary School. There are several interesting events planned for this meeting, including the induction of "Bobcats" into the Cub Scouts. Richard Smith, Gregory Scouts, and the graduation of Cub Scouts, Mark Gomez and David Johnson into the Boy Scouts.

CUB SCOUTS BASEBALL LEAGUES BEING ORGANIZED

A baseball meeting was held by Scout Masters and Scouts where it was decided that there will be organized two Cub Baseball Leagues of Aragona Village this year. Cub League No. 4 will be formed for Scouts living in the area on the North side of Bayside Road. Cub Pack Master of Pack No. 479, Mr. George Johnston, will be in charge of Cub League No. 4.

Cub Pack Master, Mr. Paul Holder, will be in charge of Cub League No. 3, which will be formed from Scouts living in the area south of Bayside Road. Bayside Road has been chosen as the line of demarcation between the two leagues. As plans progress further announcements will be made.

Mrs. Kay Goseman, Cub Mother, announced that Cub Pack No. 379 is holding its Pack Birthday Party on March 18, 1959, at the Aragona Elementary School. It is expected that more than 200 children will participate in the celebration. There will be ceremonies for the Cub Scouts who will be graduated into the Boy Scouts; entertainment; games; and ice cream and soft drinks will be served, in addition to the large birthday cake which is being baked for the occasion.

Don't forget the big Cub Scout Carnival to be held Friday, March 13th, at the Aragona Elementary School, where there will be a gay midway, cakewalks, awards and entertainment galore.

Pony League Seeks to Organize in Virginia Beach

Past efforts to organize a Pony Baseball League team from Virginia Beach has met with little enthusiasm or success. One Pony League team from the Beach will in no way hurt the Babe Ruth Teams. Babe Ruth can take only five thirteen year old boys on each team and will leave at least fifteen boys who like to play but will not be able to. There must be at least this many fourteen year old boys who could not make the teams last year and who will not be able to make them this year.

We would like to field one Pony League team from the Beach but this will have to be decided by the boys and their parents. The youngsters will have to decide for themselves whether they want to play with the Babe Ruth League or with Pony League. After the Babe Ruth League tryouts in the spring will be too late. We must know now whether there is enough interest at the Beach to try to make up a team. We are certain that after the spring tryouts there will be boys who want to play baseball but will be unable to and we are trying to push one Pony League team for this season. If we thought a Pony League team would adversely affect the Babe Ruth League we would drop our efforts immediately. As mentioned before we feel that there are more than enough boys capable of playing good ball for both.

The Lynnhaven District Pony League will hold a meeting at the Oceana Elementary School Monday evening, March 16th at 7:30 p.m. Registration of all in the entire district who are interested is necessary at this time. If we do not receive sufficient registration and interest from Virginia Beach at this meeting all efforts to field a team from here will be dropped. It's up to the boys and the parents to decide NOW.

Shrinks Hemorrhoids Without Surgery

Stops Itch—Relieves Pain
For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the amazing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "I feel like I've ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. EDITORIAL SPEAKING

For Your Future Convenience . . .

The typical sign displayed on highway improvement work usually reads: "For Your Future Safety and Convenience." This same sign is displayed on the big Pacific avenue improvement program now underway in Virginia Beach. It has real meaning.

We have heard some grumbling on the part of residents here about the inconvenience caused by the work being done on Pacific avenue and other streets which is so necessary in the proper drainage of the new Pacific avenue. It is true that it causes an inconvenience and during rainy spells there have been times that soft spots have been troublesome to motorists. However, we believe any inconvenience now is well worth the trouble since the $1,000,000 street improvement project has been so badly needed and will be of such importance to the community when it is completed.

It should be remembered, too, that the Pacific avenue improvement program is not a small undertaking. It is a major facelift for Virginia Beach and will add immeasurably to the appearance and will greatly facilitate traffic flow throughout the business district.

Any would-be complainers during the construction phase of this fine program should stop and read the sign. This construction is "for your future safety and convenience."

WHAT OTHERS ARE SAYING

Unfair And Unnecessary

Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn, whose voice on tax matters is about as authoritative as they come, foresees a dim future for the proposed increases in the federal gasoline tax to its present 3-cents-a-gallon rate to 4½ cents. This idea he told a news conference, "is going to meet a pretty cold reception out in the states. They feel they should have that field of taxation—or what's left of it." The Speaker was obviously referring to the fact that the federal government has been pre-empting more and more of the traditional sources of state tax income, which is one reason states are deep in financial problems today.

In the case of the gas tax, however, there is another very potent argument against the increase. We hear that the increase is necessary in order to pay for the multi-billion dollar highway program, which is now in the red. But, as many experts have pointed out, the proposed increase in the federal gasoline tax grossly unfair, and it is totally unnecessary. If the existing federal automotive excise taxes that now are being diverted to the treasury's general fund were applied to this road program, there would be adequate money to complete it on schedule. In other words, apply all the money raised in special taxes on highway users to the place where it belongs, which is roads, and then the road financing problem will disappear.

Motorists are fed up with federal and state taxes on gasoline which amount to some 41 per cent of the retail price. Even extreme luxuries don't carry that heavy a tax, much less a necessity like gasoline.

Safety Programs Being Presented To City, County High Schools

Chief of Police Johnson reports that a program featuring Sergeant Carl S. Pike will be presented to the Virginia Beach High School and the Princess Anne High School on Wednesday, March 11th.

Extended interest in the fields of traffic safety and magic has brought about a unique program called "Safety Magic."

The program, featuring Sgt. Carl S. Pike will be presented in ten of the secondary schools of the Norfolk-Hampton Roads area the week of March 16.

Combining his experiences in traffic safety and his talents as a magician, Sgt. Pike, currently on leave from the Kent County Sheriff's Department, Grand Rapids, Michigan, is making a tour of the United States under national sponsorship of the American Trucking Association.

In this state the Safety Magic Show is scheduled by the Virginia Highway Users Association, the trade association of the Virginia trucking industry and affiliate of ATA. The police departments serving the various schools are the local sponsors. The performance is a part of the trucking industry's safety education program. There is no cost to anyone locally.

Prior to spending over 13 years as a police safety officer Sgt. Pike was a professional magician on the stage. During this time he acquired the feats of magic and sleight-of-hand which he uses to illustrate basic rules of safety. He delights audiences with stunts such as pouring quarts of water from an empty jar and making flags spring from his steved.

Sgt. Pike gives a graphic description of motor vehicle accidents he has worked and explains how they could have been avoided and lives saved. He teaches effectively while he entertains. His principal objective is for young people to have the right attitude and habits when learning to drive motor vehicles.

Already Sgt. Pike has appeared in 42 states before audiences totaling over two million. His presentation has been endorsed by many groups and organizations, including the New York University Driver Education and Safety Institute and the Michigan Association of Insurance Agents.

Sgt. Pike was the feature speaker at the annual banquet of the Virginia Safety Association in Norfolk last May 2.

Demand of the AFL-CIO

By Ralph Robey

News is always made at a conference of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations. The recent meeting in San Juan, Puerto Rico, not only lived up to this record, but did rather better. All kinds of resolutions were adopted, and each of them if it were carried out, would affect every person in the United States. Among the high spots were the following:

1. There was criticism of the Administration for its insistence on a balanced budget. Instead of being worried about inflation, the AFL-CIO insisted the Administration should give top priority to more jobs and economic growth. Of course the Administration is giving constant study to those problems, but it believes, and properly so, that neither more jobs nor more economic growth will come from inflation.

2. The AFL-CIO asked that a law be passed reducing the present statutory 40-hour week to a 35-hour week. The reasoning offered was that this would spread the unemployment problem. Actually the result of such a change would be that overtime pay would start after 33 hours instead of 40 hours. This would increase the cost of production and would mean either higher prices or lower business profits.

Profits recently have been improving, and it is assumed that they will continue to improve for the near future. But it still remains true that business as a whole is in no position to take action which will make a substantial reduction of profits. This demand by the unions, therefore, is nothing more than a bid for higher wages without the customary process of collective bargaining. In other words, it is an effort to force an increase of wages by legislative means. Ultimately, it probably shall have a 35-hour week—indeed we already have it in some places—but forcing such a reduction by legislation is not the proper way to accomplish this goal for the future.

3. It was resolved that there should be direct union representation in the Federal Reserve Board of Governors and on the Boards of Directors of each of the twelve Federal Reserve Banks. This truly is an amazing request. The board of the Individual Reserve banks consist of three classes of directors—one representing the banks, one representing business, and one representing the public. Each class consists of three members. The Board of Governors consist of seven members, all of whom are appointed by the President with the consent of the Senate, and they are supposed to represent the entire nation.

There has been substantial criticism of the policies of the Federal Reserve Board in recent years, based upon the thesis that the Board was too restrictive—that it was not permitting the volume of money and credit to expand as rapidly as it should. That is the ground upon which the AFL-CIO asks for representation. In other words, the AFL-CIO wants lower interest rates and more rapid increase in the money supply; and, presumably, one of the major reasons for wanting this is that it thinks this would make getting higher wages easier.

Actually, the Reserve Board has done a superb job of managing our money and banking system over the past several years. Nothing

Deaths

ARTHUR CHANDLER SMITH

Arthur Chandler Smith, 68, of Route 2, London Bridge, husband of Mrs. Annie Van Nostrand Smith, died at 10:45 p.m. Saturday in a Norfolk hospital after a long illness.

Mr. Smith was a lifelong resident of Princess Anne County, a son of the late Chandler L. and Mrs. Amy Fisk Smith. He retired from U. S. Civil Service, Little Creek five months ago.

Surviving in addition to his wife are three daughters, Mrs. W. C. Miller and Mrs. Russell L. Capps, both of London Bridge, and Mrs. L. E. Lawton of Norfolk; one son, John I. Smith, of London Bridge; two brothers, C. A. Smith, also of London Bridge and Oliver Smith of Norfolk; three sisters, Mrs. James Bannlight of Back Bay, Mrs. Norman Waterman and Mrs. Lewis Van Nostrand, both of Norfolk; 18 grandchildren; 2 great grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at 2:00 p.m. at the Maestas Funeral Home, Virginia Beach by the Rev. Arthur W. Ayres, pastor of the Nimmo Methodist Church. Burial was in the Nimmo Church Cemetery.

Local Beauty Salon Has European Air

A Virginia Beach beauty salon has taken on a European air with the arrival of Robert O. Howard, who has served the ladies of Paris and London.

Howard has joined DeFrehn's Beauty Salon here in association with Mr. DeFrehn and has brought many Continental ideas to the local beauty clinic.

The two men have combined their talents to bring these new hair fashions to the ladies of Virginia Beach. One of the latest fashions that is available at DeFrehn's is the new colorful wig.

Howard has also perfected a new hair cut that is gaining much popularity here. The new style can be adapted to any woman with the help of a brush. Howard is known as a man with the magic brush, according to DeFrehn.

DeFrehn's Beauty Salon is located at 405 Thirty-first street at Holly road.

could be worse from the viewpoint of the welfare of the general public than to have its authority undermined, and requiring that either labor or any other particular group must be represented on the membership of the Board would completely destroy its independence.

A resolution was adopted calling for an investigation of the causes of rising prices by the Congressional Joint Economic Committee. The underlying purpose of this is to force labor unions to the charges that they have been responsible for higher prices through having forced wages up more rapidly than out put per manhour increased. Senator Paul Douglas, chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, is going to make such a study. It also should be noted that the Administration has appointed two committees to analyze the cause of inflation—one consisting of labor union members, with Vice President Nixon the chairman and one consisting of subcommittee members with Raymond Salinger the chairman (he is chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors).

All told it was quite a ten days in this meeting. For the moment at least, little results will come from its resolutions. But there is no time for complacency; sooner or later a real drive will be made to accomplish these objectives, and to the extent this drive is successful, we all pay for it in higher and higher prices.

Whispering Pines Garden Club Holds Meeting

The Whispering Pines Garden Club held its regular February meeting at the home of Mrs. G. A. Garvin. The club prayer and dues were read in union. Mrs. H. W. James read a poem about roses in March.

The club has made application for membership in the Virginia Federation of Garden Clubs. The member was asked to plant a rose bush in her garden to carry out the horticultural project of the Virginia Federation of Garden Clubs. It was voted to participate in the Cavalier flower show to be held at Willis Wayside as a club project.

Mrs. B. W. Foye was named chairman and her committee members are Mrs. G. A. Garvin and Mrs. S. S. Howard.

Mrs. Delmar J. Dee Sr. was given a missed and the entire club with her a speedy recovery.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Weather permitting, the club members will visit the gardens of Mrs. M. K. Crockett. The business meeting will be held later at the home of Mrs. Claude Herbert, 4005 Atlantic Ave.

GARDEN CLUB HEARS BIRD CHAIRMAN

The Princess Anne Garden Club met on Monday, March 9, at the Cavalier Yacht and Country Club.

Miss Mary Taylor Gwaltman, bird chairman for the club, urged the members to drive down to the causeway going to Knotts Island, in the late afternoon to see the Snow Geese and Whistling Swans that are there now. Before many days they will have left for the far north. There are about 25,000 geese and hundreds of swan.

Mrs. Arthur Hall reported on Historic Garden Week. Hostesses were assigned to the various places to be opened to carry out the APVA in appreciation of that organization's restoration of the old Cape Henry Lighthouse.

Mrs. S. Parker McConnell spoke on "Arrangements for the home." She said to take into consideration the type of house, furnishings, color and upholstery. Mrs. McConnell urged everyone to grow their own blooms and in making any arrangement strive to express one's own personality.

Heart Fund Drive Termed Success

Remember! returns on the Heart Fund Campaign conducted in Virginia during the month of February show a total of $23,506 in contributions. Maj. Gen. John T. Spangue, Waverly, 1959 Heart Fund Campaign Chairman, has announced. This total is $10,870 ahead of the $12,636 contributed as of the same time last year.

The increasing rate of contributions to the Heart Fund is certainly indication of the public's awareness of the seriousness of the problem of diseases of the heart and circulatory systems. General Spangue said, "and indicates too that the public is endeavoring to do something, en masse, about the problem. We are most grateful for this support."

The association studies research projects and medical education facilities at the Medical College of Virginia and the University of Virginia School of Medicine. Also, it joins with the American Heart Association sponsoring research at other institutions throughout the United States.

Educational programs, conducted by Virginia Heart and its chapters, are designed for both professional and lay people. In order to help the medical profession in Virginia keep informed of the latest developments in the field of heart research, Virginia Heart and its chapters conduct symposia for doctors and symposia for nurses. Speakers and films are provided for meetings, and educational materials are sent or given to schools. Heart literature is distributed to people who can benefit from the information contained therein.

Virginia Heart and several of its chapters have given oxygen equipment to rescue squads. Richmond Area Heart is financing a project that is unique in Virginia Hospital. This unit tests cardiac patients to determine the work load which they are able to carry. The unit's services are available only to medically indigent patients who are referred by their physicians.

Tidewater Heart in Norfolk is conducting a Rheumatic Fever Prevention program through the public and parochial schools in Norfolk. Also, it supports a blood bank from which surgeons may obtain blood vessels for patients.

Piedmont Heart maintains a register of nurses who are available during off-hours for service to heart patients and makes no charge for this service. The patient pays the nurse a nominal fee.

These are only a few of the community service projects which are sponsored by the Heart chapters throughout the state.

New Books Tells History of State

Virginia: A New Look at the Old Dominion, by Marshall W. Folsom, Washington and Lee University, will be on sale in bookstores throughout the country on March 15.

The story of Virginia, from 1009 when the ship "Discovery" first sighted land to today's integration problems, the book is published by Harper Brothers, New York book publishers.

Professor Folsom's popular history covers the most important events in Virginia life: the early settlers, the Civil War, Reconstruction, and what is happening today.

"I have not written an objective history of my state," writes the author. "Virginia can only be understood in terms of its mythology. What Virginians think they are has a lot to do with what they have become."

In examining the Virginia character, Folsom discusses the F.F.V.'s, the "poor whites," Virginia in fiction and song, the nature of Virginia women, the Negro, government, cities, and industry.

YOUR HEALTH

FAIR PLAY

Pharmaceutical manufacturers spend millions of dollars in developing new therapeutic compounds, only to see them frequently become obsolete with a matter of months when some other firm introduces a new, more effective product. Dr. R. S. Rich, writing in The British Medical Journal, recently had this to say: "When patent law as applied to the pharmaceutical industry is considered in this way, it should be appreciated immediately that it is based on the accepted principles of fair play, and is not an aspect of wicked commercial monopoly."

The 35-year-old author, who was born in Roanoke, attended the University of Virginia, Yale and the University of Wisconsin. He is now Professor of American Studies at Washington and Lee.

"Virginia" is the first of a series of books on the regions of America which Harper will publish. The entire series is under the editorship of Carl Carmer, noted author of "Stars Fell On Alabama" and other histories.

Sportsmen's Show Slated in Richmond March 17-22

A sportsmen's show, certain to appeal to the lover of any outdoor sport, will be staged in the 65,500 square-foot Richmond Arena, March 17-22.

The show—the fourth annual Virginia Motor Boat and Sportsmen's Show—will feature such diversified activities as fly-casting, rifle and pistol shooting demonstrations, archery, knife-throwing, trained dogs in action, and antics of Zippy, the chimpanzee of television fame.

Scores of boats, ranging in size from tiny punts to luxury cruisers and sailboats, will be on display. On display, too, will be a variety of outboard motors, marine equipment, fishing tackle (demonstrated by experts), and a large assortment of other sports equipment required by the modern Virginian for the greatest enjoyment of outdoor living.

Shown for the first time in Virginia will be the Terra-Marina Amphibious Land and Water cruiser, which is about as practical a house boat as ever constructed. Another feature display will be a complete, three room (14 feet in diameter) Log cabin, 33 feet long, completely furnished, with electric refrigerator, fluorescent lights, bunks and all conveniences. This cabin, holoformed from a 1900 year old California red wood tree, original height 287 feet to the top, is the only one of its kind in America.

The show will bring together the manufacturer, distributor, dealer, and consumer of hunting, fishing, recreation and sporting goods equipment.

One of the featured attractions will be an especially-constructed tank where fishermen may test and improve their skill with line and reel. They'll have experts on hand to provide improvement pointers.

Among featured acts will be Chief White Cloud and his troupe of Seneca Indians, demonstrating their prowess with the rifle, the bow and arrow, and with knives. Trained Alaskan husky dogs will be put through their paces by pretty Gee Gee Powell.

The kids are certain to enjoy the activities of that kid-pleaser—Zippy, the chimpanzee familiar to millions through television and movie appearances.

High-bouncing trampoline artists will demonstrate their skill on the taut canvas.

Another act features The Florida Trio, a team of contortionists, so loose in bone and muscle that they are packed into a suitcase and carried onstage.

The Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries will exhibit wildlife indigenous to the Old Dominion.

The Salt Water Sport Fishing Association and the Isaak Walton League will be provided with large exhibit booths at the show. Members of those two organizations will be available for provision of pointers in practice casting. Available for similar instruction will be representatives of several national fishing tackle manufacturers.

Joe Brooks, nationally-known fisherman and author of several books on the subject, will be a frequent visitor to the show, where he will demonstrate his technique with rod and reel.

On March 1, 1890, Rear Admiral George F. Dewey, Spanish-American war hero, became the first Naval officer to receive the newly created rank of Admiral.

The National Outlook

Business Recovery Rolls Along

By RALPH BOBBY

Business recovery continues to move forward and upward. The rate may not be as rapid as a few months ago, but there is no question as to the direction. Three broad items make this clear:

First, industrial production, as measured by the Federal Reserve Board index, advanced in January for the ninth consecutive month. The one point rise in the index, to 143, is now only two points below the pre-recession peak. Recovery in this field is over 86 per cent.

Equally important, the rise was in both durable and non-durable goods. The latter is currently some four per cent above the pre-recession peak; durable goods production still is about five per cent below the peak of August 1957.

The relatively poor showing of durable production is partly accounted for by a glass strike curtailing production by Chrysler, and partly by a reduced level of output in the farm machinery field.

Mineral production—also covered by this index—was down one point because of declines in coal mining and oil and gas well drilling. Other mineral production was up, but not enough to offset these declines.

Secondly, personal income increased about $2.4 billion in January. In December there had been a slight decline because year-end dividends were off shaggy. In January there was more than a full recovery in this item.

The larger portion of the increase in personal income, however, was in wage and salary disbursements, and the most notable rise here was in commodity producing industries as contrasted with distributive and service industries.

The only broad category of personal income which did not show an increase in January was transfer payments, which consists primarily of veterans and social insurance benefits. On an annual basis these were $26 billion. Last September was the peak of these payments at just a billion dollars higher. The growth of these transfer payments has been fabulous; half the present volume, and for as late as 1952 they were only one all of 1956 they amounted to less than $10 billion. Personal contributions of employees and self-employed for social insurance have been advancing at about the same rate. In 1952 such contributions were $3.8 billion, in 1956 they were $5.7 billion, and in January, 1959, they were at an annual rate of $7.6 billion. This was an increase of $800 million over December and reflects higher social security taxes that went into effect January 1.

In spite of increased taxation the social security system is still running in the red, but this is supposed to be a temporary situation.

Finally, housing starts show this segment of the economy is still strong. The January figure, on a seasonally adjusted annual basis, was 1,350,000. This was a decline from December, which was of boom proportions, but it is the highest January since 1955, and except for December is the highest for any month since June, 1955. In 1955 total nonfarm housing starts, both private and public, were 1,300,000. In 1958 the figure was 1,200,000. This year is expected to be just as good, or perhaps a shade better, but no one is predicting we will reach the 1955 total.

Construction as a whole in January was 10 per cent above a year earlier. Private outlays showed a smaller percentage increase than public expenditures. Construction as a whole this year will come to something above $52 billion. Of these three items only housing really offers any evidence of a slowdown in the recovery, and this is not too impressive. It was hardly expected that housing starts could continue at the December rate, and it was not desirable that they do so. Such a thing could have led up into a housing boom, which would not be favorable to the long-term growth of the nation.

As a matter of fact some slowdown in the rate of recovery was and is desirable. We have moved quite rapidly in recent months, and while there still is plenty of room on the upside, and it is essential that we continue to advance, too rapid growth is not suitable, and if we start to move into a boom it will really be time to start to worry.

Telephone Excise Tax in Virginia Near $9 Million

Virginia customers of The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia paid almost $9 million in federal excise taxes on telephone service in 1958, C&P local manager J. F. Patrick disclosed today. The average payment per customer was about $15.00. Telephone service is taxed at the rate of 10% for federal excise tax purposes.

Telephone service is the only household utility on which a federal excise tax is levied, Patrick pointed out. The C&P collects the tax from its customers and turns it over to the United States tax collectors.

The excise tax on telephone service was introduced many years ago as a temporary wartime measure but has never been removed, Patrick said. In 1954 the tax was reduced to its present 10% rate. Telephone users consider it an unfair and discriminatory tax because it singles out one segment of the public—in fact, one segment of household utility users who already bear their share of the state and local taxation. Excise taxes are usually applied to such luxury items as fur, jewelry, cosmetics, liquor, tobacco, cabaret bills, private club dues and the like, and of course, the telephone today is not a luxury but a necessity.

Congressional legislation is now pending in both the House of Representatives and the Senate calling for the outright repeal of all excise taxes on communications. Mr. Patrick also said that the National Association of Railroad and Utility Commissioners recently adopted a resolution favoring repeal. If these taxes are removed the customer would get all the relief directly and immediately, he added.

Foster Parents' Plan, which has rehabilitated more than 76,000 children on a personal basis since its founding in 1937, is now helping 13,500 youngsters in Greece, Italy, South Korea, France, Belgium, Viet Nam and in the DP camps of West Germany. Over the past 20 years, more than 600,000 individuals and groups in America have helped needy children overseas through Foster Parents' Plan.

"We are indeed grateful to this group for giving Anastasia this wonderful gift of hope and help," declared Miss Gloria C. Matthews, Executive Director of Foster Parents' Plan, "and we prayerfully hope that many others who read this will also extend a helping hand to a distressed child. We shall be happy to send full information on how to become a Foster Parent to a child in Europe, Korea or Viet Nam to any individual, school or group writing to Foster Parents' Plan, 332 Fourth Avenue, New York City." Miss Matthews added:

Management, Feeding Practices
Hike Egg Income

Management, efficiency and egg-feed ratios largely determine egg profits for many Southern and Eastern producers.

These and other factors in a quality egg program are being stressed in March, which marks the 10th annual observance of National Egg Month.

Many egg producers have found that extra egg income can be obtained on less feed when a broad-spectrum antibiotic is added to feed rations, particularly in a continuous feeding program.

The South Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station at Clemson, which studied the effects of antibiotics on egg production when chickens were infected with chronic respiratory disease, found that production was increased through the use of antibiotic supplements. The CRO symptoms were significantly relieved.

The antibiotic Aureomycin, used continuously in rations of laying hens, has been found not only to insure against possible losses from disease but also to increase the daily average lay. Results of a 16-month experiment by Miller & Bushman, Inc. of Leesville, S.C., Lancaster, Pa., indicate some of the major benefits of such a program.

One lot of 2,800 average production Leghorn pullets was fed a regular all-mash laying ration with 38 grams of Aureomycin in a continuous basis. The hens also were fed three pounds of oats and five pounds of supplementary pellets per hen based production increased by 19 per cent. 387 pounds less feed required to produce one dozen eggs, and fewer hens culled.

Linkhorn Park Garden Club Holds Meeting

"We have much to be thankful for in our beautiful country," Mrs. Bentley Byrd told the Linkhorn Park Garden Club at their meeting March 6. "Our plant life, birds, water, old homes—to mention a few things. We should strive to preserve our native plant life. When planting or transplanting, she told the club, "if you prepare the soil well, there will be little need for fertilizing later."

Concerning birds, the speaker said, "If you want real joy day in and day out, get a bird feeder so that you may watch the birds. To have lots of inexpensive bird feed, buy 50 pounds of cracked corn and mix with 10 pounds of sunflower seeds. A garbage can makes a good container in which to store and mix large quantities of this feed."

The club also had an interesting group of flower compositions illustrating song and book titles. Mrs. Byrd and Mrs. Fred Barham judged these, and awarded blue ribbons to Mrs. Tom Rose for her composition, "Japanese Sandman," and Mrs. William Lohaupt for "Wedding Bells." Red ribbons were awarded Mrs. A. A. Antun for "Spring is Busting Out All Over" and Mrs. Wiley C. Harrell for "The Wearing of the Green." Mrs. Margaret Orr received a blue ribbon for her horticultural specimen, an African violet.

4 tablespoons sugar

Put sweetened condensed milk and lemon juice into mixing bowl. Stir until thickened. Beat cream cheese, softened at room temperature, until smooth. Add one egg yolk at a time, beating after each addition. Add fruit and milk. Fold the cheese-fruit mixture into sweetened condensed milk mixture. Put into cooled baked pastry shell. Add cream of tartar to egg whites. Beat until stiffest soft enough to hold a peak. Add sugar gradually, beating until whites are stiff and glossy but not dry. Pipe egg whites lightly on pie filling. Bake in slow oven (225°F.) until lightly browned, about 15 minutes. Cook.

*Any of the following fruits may be used:

1 cup dried strawberries
1 cup fresh raspberries
1 cup drained crushed pineapple
1 1/2 cups (No. 2 can) sour pitted cherries, well drained
2 medium lemons, sliced
For a Saint Patrick's Day pie, use crushed pineapple and graham pie, after meringue is browned, add drained green maraschino cherries.

Ten Little Indians Now Playing at Little Creek

Crime by rhyme is the theme of Agatha Christie's famous mystery play, "Ten Little Indians," which will be presented by the Little Creek Players this week-end and next, March 5, 7, 13 and 14, at 8:30 p.m., in the West Annex Theatre of the Naval Amphibious Base.

The play concerns ten guests who are invited to spend a week-end on an isolated island estate. There, one by one, they meet their fate, which strangely follows a foolish child's poem, "Ten Little Indians," going out to dine; one choked himself, and then there were nine; begins a horror tale of mounting suspense and excitement which has made the Christie thriller a classic of its type.

In the cast are two couples from England, Claud and Audrey Dickens and Norris and Penelope Martin. They are old hands in the theatre and have been in shows as far away as Hong Kong and Singapore. Both couples came here to serve with the NAAC staff of Adm. Wright, but the Martins now reside permanently at Virginia Beach. Dickens is the great-grandson of the famous novelist Charles Dickens. Mrs. Dickens is a radio announcer for WVEC-FM.

Tickets are 50 cents for enlisted personnel and their guests, and 30 cents for all others. Civilians are welcome to the performances, and Gate Two at the Naval Amphibious Base will be open for this event, with the route to the West Annex Theatre well marked. Tickets are available from the Players or at the box office before each performance and reservations may be made by calling HQward 4-1011, extension 322.

Evolution of a doorstep

It's not time that makes an antique. It's change.

Within easy remembering for many years customers every household used the same stone-headed doorstop that had been known for a thousand years. Yet, today, such items are antiques, doing duty as doorstops.

And that's just one tiny symptom of the sweeping change since VECO was born in 1909. For during those fifty years, electricity has become the universal servant, the hardest working farm hand.

It's meant a soaring need for electric power. And, to keep ahead of that need, VECO has constantly increased its long-range research and planning.

Because VECO planners have looked far ahead, you now have power plenty for all today's new electric servants. And because VECO engineers are already working about your needs in 1959, you can feel sure of the future.

For VECO is now adding more new capacity each year than its entire electric capacity in 1909! More power to help you work better. Run better. LIVE BETTER—ELECTRICALLY!

F & D A NEEDS IDENTICAL TWINS CALVES

U S D A's Agricultural Research Center at Beltsville, Maryland is in need of several pairs of identical twin beef-type calves. These calves can be purebred, grade, or crossbred. Either heifer or bull calves will be bought.

If you have a set of twins born on your farm this spring write to Everett J. Warwick, Chief, Beef Cattle Research Branch, Animal Husbandry Research Division, Beltsville, Maryland. An inspector will be sent out to inspect the calves before they are bought.

You may be able to make a substantial contribution to research of benefit to the livestock industry.

TIME TO THINK ABOUT CORN FERTILIZER

Farmers are beginning to think about fertilizing corn already. There seems to be three things on most people's minds today. What analysis will be used, how much will be used, and what will it cost? These are probably the three most important questions to get answered in any fertilization program, and especially on corn since large amounts are generally used.

We used to determine the analysis to use by figuring the cost per unit. This is good, but today it isn't quite good enough. I have started thinking along the lines of "how to supply a given amount of nitrogen, phosphorus, and potash on an acre the cheapest." This is a new to some people's thinking, but it is certainly worth considering.

Let me give an example of how to determine the cheapest fertilizer to use. Let's use for this example two complete fertilizers, 2-12-12 and 3-18-18. Also take as example that 2-12-12 cost $40.00 per ton and 3-18-18 cost $55.00 per ton. These prices probably are not the same that you buy these fertilizers for, but they work just as well in showing how to determine the best of the two. We must also figure in the cost of nitrogen at side-dressing time too, and again, for an example let's use $15 per lb. of nitrogen.

Now on our corn crop we want to use a total of 100 lbs. nitrogen, 100 lbs. phosphorus, and 100 lbs. potash. In order to put this amount of plant food "down" using 2-12-12, we would have to use 800 lbs. at cost of $16.00 per acre. To get a total of 100 lbs. of nitrogen on the crop we would have to apply 84 lbs. at side-dressing time at a cost of $12.60. Therefore to apply 100-96-96 using 2-12-12 plus nitrogen would cost $28.60 per acre.

Now let's see what happens if you use 3-18-18 plus nitrogen. To put down 100-100-100 you would have to use 550 lbs. at a cost of 15.07 per acre. To get the 100 lbs. nitrogen 83.5 lbs. would have to be applied at side-dressing. This would cost, on the basis of $15 per lb. of nitrogen, $12.53. Therefore, to apply 100-96-96 using 3-18-18 plus nitrogen would cost $27.60 per acre.

These prices come from one fertilizer company. They are non-dealers FOR Norfolk prices. You will have to get the prices from your company on all the different analysis to be able to determine the cheapest way to fertilize your corn crop. Also I don't want you to forget that the ratio of the analysis should be determined by a soil sample, then you can select the cheapest fertilizer of the proper ratio. Get those fields sampled now, and bring them to my office for analysis and recommendations.

If you need some help on determining the fertilizer to use, please call me. I'll be very happy to sit down with you and go over the entire matter with you.

ROBERT WHITE TRIED TWO WAYS

One of the big items we worked on last year in the "Corn-Net Return Improvement" demonstration was the fertilization. This was shown very clearly on Robert White's demonstration last year.

Robert used two entirely different methods of fertilization last year, and found a big difference in the net return of his corn crop. Let's look at the total picture to see how it was done. Robert had two fields, one 7 acres, the other 6.3 acres. In both fields he planted Ohio 64 9-inches apart in 40-inch rows. The corn was cultivated twice. The land preparation was the same in both fields. The only difference was the fertilization. In his demonstration Robert used from bunker to bunker, from green to green, on the DeSota Lake Country Club, Sarasota, Florida. Yes, General Sam Snead marched victoriously upward for another decisive triumph. His three under par 68 against Bolt's 79 clearly indicated, after the first few holes, the issue was never in doubt.

SNEAD-BOLT
ABC-TV ALL-STAR GOLF MATCH

Six of Bolt's tee shots, while well hit for distance, were ambushed in a bunker... and in every case but one, he was unable to recover. Not only did he lose the "Battle of Bunker Hill," but he spent considerable time on the "Village Green" with three 3-putt holes. This you cannot afford to do against a cunning cavalry man like Snead who managed to play eleven of the tricky holes at DeSota Lake Country Club with eleven 1-putt greens.

This is really the story of the match in a nutshell. Both pros had their share of trouble... Bolt never got the breaks, nor could he come up with the important recovery shot. On the other hand, Sam seemed to always have that shot-saving 9-iron or wedge in his bag.

Snead bogeyed twice himself, but his five birdies more than made up for this. His first birdie was scored with a 15-foot putt on the 6th hole. He came right back on the 7th with an 80-yard wedge 8 feet from the pin, and from there, he calmly holed out. On the 10th, his steady 4-iron put him 7 feet from the pin, and he one-putted for a birdie three. On the 14th, par 5, 365 yard hole, he was over the green with his 9-iron on the second shot by 45 feet, but he came back with his 9-iron and plunked the ball down one foot from the pin for his birdie 4. On the 16th, he hit a 9-iron 130 yards to within twelve feet from the pin and capitalized on this shot by sinking his putt.

Sam's hot putter earned him another $2,000, bringing his total on All-Star Golf to $14,500. Next week, as your Munsey-Golf Reporter, I'll be giving you the inside story on Snead's skirmish with Bob Roebig, who might be just the boy to put an end to "Slamming" Sam Snead's TV career.

Vet Service Agent To Visit Virginia Beach Today

On Thursday, March 12, 1959, Tom Moore, Veterans Service Officer from Norfolk, will be available at the Virginia Beach Convention Center ("The Dome") on Pacific Avenue at 19th Street, to counsel and file claims and forms for veterans and their survivors. Moore makes this, usual visit, scheduled for the 2nd and 4th Thursdays each month, between the hours of 11 AM and 3 PM.

Moore is a representative for the Commonwealth of Virginia, Division of War Veterans' Claims, a State agency, not associated with the Federal Government, that is authorized to represent veterans and their survivors in development and presentation of their claims and applications before the Veterans Administration and other Government agencies for benefits to which they may be entitled under law. The services of the Division are free and the representatives are trained persons with much experience, and all war veterans are trained.

The Division is under the direction of Harry F. Carper, Jr., whose offices are in the State Veterans Administration office in Roanoke. The Division operates under the Virginia Department of Law, the Honorable Albert S. Harrison, Jr., Attorney General.

cheapest to most expensive: pasture, sudan grass or pearl millet, corn silage, alfalfa hay, grass silage, mixed hay, mixed grain, and purchased concentrate mixture.

Dairymen will be wise, under most conditions, to produce as much pasture and corn silage as possible to meet their feed needs.

An inventory of feed needs and supplies early in the feeding year can indicate what amount of feed must be bought. Up to 25% can be saved on certain feeds by buying and storing at traditionally low price periods.

The inventory of needs and supplies can prevent running out of feed, and the resulting loss in production, if the amount produced or bought is increased according to needs.

WHICH IS THE MOST PROFITABLE?

Which is the most profitable feeder pigs or feeding them out for market hogs?

Many factors in your individual farm operation, including the amount of feed you have available, must be weighed. The market also should play a part in your decision. This year, hog prices will probably drop through March, with a seasonal advance in late spring. A seasonal peak of possibly $20 to $21 is expected in late May or early June. After this peak, prices will probably decline steadily until reaching a possible low point of $14 to $15 in November.

A special showing of Cecil B. DeMille's great epic, "The King of Kings," will be presented by the Thalia Lynn Baptist Church in the auditorium of Princess Anne High School at 7:45 p.m. on Sunday, March 22.

Outstanding feature will be the special musical interpretations of this outstanding life of Christ to be given on the Conn. Classic Organ by Mr. Bruce Roberts. This dramatic presentation has formerly been of such wide spread interest that a special invitation to the general public has been extended by the church.

Among quotes of famous people concerning "The King of Kings" is the statement of its producer, Cecil B. DeMille, "The greatest picture I ever made." George M. Cohan said, "The King of Kings is the most interesting and impressive picture I've ever seen. I hope to see it again." Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. exclaimed, "It is probably the greatest religious and educational film ever produced." Dr. S. Parkes Chapman, "No man, woman, or child should miss seeing it."

Cavalier Open Today After Renovating

The Cavalier, closed since Feb. 9 for extensive renovations and improvements, will reopen today in advance of a heavy pre-Easter influx of holiday seekers.

Sidney Banks, Cavalier president, said aside from the Eastern trade, spring convention bookings are the most encouraging in years.

He announced the addition of three new services in the lower lobby, including Alexander-Beebe's sport shop for men and women, a health studio, and a TV-viewing room.

The resort center will reopen with a combination air conditioning and heating system in operation for the first time.

Other improvements include redecoration of the main dining room, which is now equipped with a dance area for the first time. All corridors have been recarpeted and guest rooms redecorated.

Convening at the Cavalier during April will be the Council of Catholic Women, Kappa Theta Sorority, Virginia Federation of Women's Club, Pilot International Club, and Delta Kappa Gamma Sorority.

Modern Home Open For Beach Garden Tour

The modern one-story home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Lamb is one of six homes at Virginia Beach which will be open during Historic Garden Week on the Virginia Beach Tour on Tuesday, April 21st.

Built of old brick and wood siding this house is an adaptation of House and Garden's "House of the Year for 1955," and is designed for the enjoyment of casual resort-suburban living, emphasizing the projection of the interior to outdoor doors. It is planned to fit the needs of two carefree with two young children. Mrs. Lamb is an artist and has her own advertising business, and Mr. Lamb is an executive in broadcasting in Norfolk.

Immediately adjacent to the living room, the breezy-porch is a center for summer living. It has a fireplace and barbecue and is fully equipped.

On the walls of Mrs. Lamb's studio—next to the porch—are a number of her water colors, and a collection of hats acquired on trips to the islands.

'Confederacy' Planners

Ed Loessin, left, who will direct "The Confederacy" here this summer, is shown discussing the historic outdoor drama with Dr. Samuel Selden, who directed the play in its premiere season last year. The drama will open here on June 22.

Tryouts for 'Confederacy' Start At Amphitheatre Here Today

"Confederacy" Director Ed Loessin will hold tryouts this afternoon at the Robert E. Lee Amphitheatre at Virginia Beach. All candidates for positions with the 1959 production will be seen today. Those interested in acting parts should be prepared with a one-minute reading of their own choosing that best displays their acting ability. Singers and dancers should also be prepared to audition for acting parts as they will be required to double as members of the cast.

Musical Director Willard Hobbs will audition singers at a date to be announced in the near future.

There are some 50 acting, singing and dancing roles to be filled for the 1959 production which goes into rehearsal June 25th.

General Manager John Caudle will also interview technical and administrative personnel at the auditions this afternoon. "The Confederacy" is produced by the Tidewater Historic Drama Association and employs approximately 130 persons during the summer season.

Loessin will depart from Virginia Beach tonight to conduct auditions Friday afternoon at the Barksdale Memorial Theatre near Richmond, at the Southeast Theatre Conference Saturday afternoon at Berle, Ky., and will hold tryouts Sunday afternoon for the Washington area at the Wakefield High School in Arlington, Va.

Huge Trash Container Reminds Motorists of Clean-Up Drive

This trash monument set up by the Junior Virginia Beach Garden Club is located on Laskin Road on the island opposite Friends School. A second one by the Birchwood Garden Club is set up on the island in front of Birchwood Gardens. They are one of a series of projects that are being carried on this year by the Virginia Beach and Princess Anne Garden Clubs in cooperation with the Council of Garden Clubs to combat the litter problem.

Another project to be carried out in March and April is the distribution of 10,000 litter reminder cards which the council has had printed for distribution with the sale of license tags in March and April.

Mayor Frank Dusch has officially proclaimed April as Clean Up Month and all citizens are urged to get out on Saturday, April 4th along with the Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, and Brownies who will be out to pick up litter on their property and any vacant surrounding lots.

WBOF radio will make litter announcement throughout the day on April 4th also.

Everyone is urged to be litter conscious.

Auto Tag Sale Off to Brisk Start Here

The sale of the new Virginia automobile license plates has been brisk since they became available to the public last Monday morning, according to word from issuing agents in Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County.

There has been some confusion on the insurance information required, but not as much as had been anticipated, it was reported.

The new tags are on sale at Kellam-Raton Insurance Company in Virginia Beach, at the Treasurer's office at Princess Anne Courthouse, at the National Bank of Commerce at Little Creek and at P. H. Schaefer's on the Military Highway.

County Schools May Eliminate Split Shifts

Split shifts for 3,000 Princess Anne County students should be eliminated next September, Supt. of Schools Frank W. Cox told the School Board Tuesday.

This year only first and second graders are in split classes. Additional classes for 1,500 pupils should eliminate the need. Split shifts have been in operation for the past five years.

Some elementary pupils in Princess Anne will attend different schools next year. All eighth graders will attend Kempville Junior High School except those who go to Linkhorn Park School.

Kempville will add to its enrollment to the existing 28, and will house an estimated 850 eighth graders.

Advanced foreign language, science and algebra courses will be offered next year to students who have an IQ of 120 or who qualify through tests. Most of the gifted children will enter the program in the eighth grade and continue through high school.

About 10 to about 12 per cent of Princess Anne pupils should qualify, Cox estimated.

"The idea of this program is to challenge pupils who are not being challenged," Cox told the board. The accelerated courses are offered as a result of a new policy adopted by the State Board of Education last year.

KNIGHTS BOYS CLUB ENTER 7 IN GOLDEN GLOVES

The boys and their titles are: Charlie Price, flyweight; Bobby Brown, featherweight; Jimmy Gregory, welterweight; Gary Cross, lightweight.

On March 20 and 21 the team will enter the State AAU Golden Gloves in Roanoke. They hope to bring back more trophies this time.

The exhibit room will be open each of the three days from two in the afternoon until 10 at night. A small admission of 25 cents will be charged and proceeds from the show will be turned over to the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Rescue Squad.

There will be door prizes each night, it was announced. Approximately 40 boats will be on display and about 50 motors.

Dutch Colonial Home Feature Of Virginia Beach Garden Tour

When Mr. and Mrs. F. Reid Ervin planned their home, built in 1937, they wanted to incorporate certain definite ideas they had. They desired a location where their three young children could enjoy the ocean and beach, a comfortable home, easy to maintain with simplified housekeeping for the hard up it would receive, and they liked the old Williamsburg type of house.

A visitor to this charming Old Dutch Colonial house at 115 7th Street, on the Virginia Beach Tour on Tuesday, April 21st, will see how well they succeeded in accomplishing their aims—and how cleverly they have combined old Williamsburg feeling and colors, with modern comfort and livability.

The house, accented by a low white fence in front, sits well back on the property, surrounded by beautiful old live oak trees—and is only a half block from the ocean. A covered brick-paved walkway along the side of the garage leads to the porch and the entrance.

The center entrance hall, paved in brick, is the living room, with its white paneled fireplace wall, and adjoining dining room with its sunny bay window; while the pine paneled family room, and the large gay kitchen, with its breakfast bar, are as modern as tomorrow.

The rear of the property has been closed in by a high stake fence, which protects a small quiet garden, and gives privacy to the large brick-paved porch.

"This livable home is air conditioned, has an inter-com system to all parts of the house, and is an ideal home for a busy young family."

Cancer Society Out of United Fund Campaign

The Princess Anne Unit, American Cancer Society, announced today that they will withdraw from the United Communities' Fund effective December 31, 1958.

The Board of Directors of the Princess Anne Unit said that this action was taken in accordance with the fund-raising policy adopted by the American Cancer Society requiring that no unit of the society may remain in Community Chests or United Fund after 1958. Mrs. Paul Polignac, president, said that this was not an easy decision for the board of directors to make. She stated that after careful study the board concluded that the Princess Anne Unit could best serve the cause of cancer in this community by carrying out the policies of the national organization.

The Princess Anne Unit will continue to serve the community in both service and education to the best of its ability.

Board Learns About Gasoline Buying Habits

Motorists are twice as likely to buy gasoline coming from work than they are going to work, an oil company representative has told the Princess Anne Board of Supervisors.

He was one of several persons seeking to have the Board set aside a recommendation by the Planning Commission to deny a petition to build a gas station on Virginia Beach Boulevard opposite Princess Anne High School. The matter was referred to the Planning Board for further study.

The supervisors discussed other planning matters in the session which lasted less than an hour. The board will hold a regular session Monday.

HAYCOX IMPROVED AFTER SURGERY

Haycox is expected to return to his Cavalier Park home here early next week and is expected to be up and about in approximately two weeks.

Princess Anne Key Clubber Nominated for High Office

A member of the Princess Anne High School Key Club has been nominated as Capital District candidate for International Trustee of the organization. He is Bryan Bennett, a student at the school.

The election will take place this summer at the Key Club International convention to be held in Montreal, Canada. Bennett was nominated last weekend in Baltimore, Md.

The Princess Anne Key Club also won a second place award at the convention for a single service project. The project which won the Princess Anne second place was their project to promote religion emphasis and church attendance in the high school.

F. Reale Wilhoit, president of the Virginia Beach Kiwanis Club, was reappointed assistant district chairman for Key Clubs.

The local group visited the United States Naval Academy, on the return trip from Baltimore. They were conducted on a tour of the Academy by former Key Clubbers who are now Midshipmen. Pictures were taken for use in the Academy newspaper and the Kiwanis magazine.

EDITORIAL SPEAKING

'Litterbugs,' Beware

The perennial "litterbug" had better watch his step in Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County this year more than ever before. The ladies are on the war path and rightly so to see that we are not a dirty area filled with trash and litter created by careless and unthinking citizens.

The Council of Garden Clubs, through its many member clubs and their members, are making an all-out effort this year to help alleviate a condition that has existed here for years. At the same time these fine ladies realize that their job entails a program of education and they are doing something about it.

The Council of Garden Clubs has had printed 10,000 litter reminder cards which are being distributed through the sale of the new State automobile license tags.

These are being distributed now and will be distributed through April 15.

One of the most impressive projects the ladies have undertaken is the placing of huge trash baskets on the island strips of the highway between Virginia Beach and Norfolk. One is located on Laskin Road opposite the Friends School and another is located at Birchwood Gardens. More of these baskets are to be placed later this month.

The only request being made by these Garden Club ladies is that each and every citizen cooperate with them in making our city and county a clean and beautiful area. This can be accomplished through complete cooperation. The ladies are doing their part. How about you?

Beach Gets It's First Boat Show

Boat lovers and water enthusiasts in this area are in for a treat next weekend when the First Annual Boat Show is scheduled to be held in the Convention Center here. Proceeds from the show are to be turned over to the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Rescue Squad.

It is the plan of the sponsors to stage a boat show here each year. All of the exhibitors are sports dealers in Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County.

Officials of the boat show have expressed delight, too, with the spaciousness of the Convention Center here and its adaptability for such a show. The floor space in the main dome auditorium is ideal for the show.

The Boat Show will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, March 28, 29 and 30 and bids fair to being one of the most interesting events yet staged in the Convention Center.

It will not only be a show of boats. Listed to be exhibited are boat motors of varying sizes, fishing equipment and boating and fishing accessories.

We are convinced the First Annual Boat Show here will be a success. It should prove most interesting to spectators.

TRAGEDY ON THE TV FRONT

Chesapeake Beach Woman's Club Wins Awards

The Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach was represented at the Spring meeting of the Tidewater District of Federated Women's Clubs of Virginia, held Tuesday, March 11, at the Chamberlin Hotel, by 10 members. Mrs. W. B. Meekins served as official delegate.

Mrs. Harry W. Fulford, club president, served on a panel for the club institute of the district. Her topic was "Where There Is Light There Is Hope." Mrs. Fulford briefly outlined the successful Youth and Golden Age clubs which are sponsored by the Chesapeake club.

Seven awards were received by the Woman's club members who entered into the various competitions sponsored annually by the district. Those winning were Mrs. Richard J. Vellines, who received a red and blue ribbon for her picture entered in the article class; Mrs. Elwood A. Hudson was the recipient of a blue ribbon for her painting entered in the novice competition. The three pictures were in the pastel division. Three awards in hand work were awarded to Mrs. Fred Baglier, a blue or first prize for her hand braided rug, a red or second prize for her hand-knit sweater and hand crocheted table cloth.

As club publicity chairman, Mrs. Hudson accepted for the Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach, second prize in the class of clubs of 100 members or less, on the club scrapbook. This award is highly coveted in the district and for this work, the Chesapeake club has won four ribbons in the past four years, including the Helen Wood and treasured award for the best in the district. This award was won this year by the Woman's Club of Norfolk.

Mrs. Harry W. Fulford was re-elected as president of the Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach. Other officers elected at the club's meeting, Tuesday, at Bazemore's Restaurant at Chesapeake Beach, were Mrs. Gordon Oliver, first vice president; Mrs. A. H. Burns, second vice president; Mrs. Ernest S. Moore, secretary; and Mrs. Frederick Hilder, treasurer.

Five CAME packages have been sent to Vietnam, and 50 pairs of old eye glasses were sent to American Medical Centers in foreign countries. The glasses are dismantled and reclassified for use of those people who otherwise would never receive the help for their ailing eyes.

Mrs. Rieder will be the club's delegate to the State Convention of the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs which will be held at Virginia Beach next month. The Chesapeake Beach club will be in charge of all registrations for the event, with Mrs. Fulford acting chairman and Mrs. W. B. Meekins as co-chairman.

An Easter egg hunt for the children of the area will be held Easter Monday, March 30, at 2 p.m. on the adjoining lawns of Mrs. Elwood A. Hudson and Mrs. Meekins. Mrs. A. H. Burns will be chairman. Children from the ages of three to 12 will be invited.

A very interesting program was presented to the club through the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, subject of which was "Diamonds, The Most Coveted Gem." Replicas of all the famous diamonds in the world were displayed.

CARDINAL GARDEN CLUB HEARS HISTORY OF FLOWERS
The March meeting of the Cardinal Garden Club of Virginia Beach was held in the home of Mrs. Robert Durley with co-hostesses Mrs. Irvin Upson.

The MIXING BOWL..

IT'S Fun TO COOK

By LUCILE CLARK
SUN-NEWS FOOD EDITOR

For the very best in food taste and texture... in practical, down-to-earth recipes that please both palate and pocketbook, read the "Mixing Bowl" by Lucile Clark each Thursday in the Sun-News.

This is a good time for getting ahead — and, in the menu department, getting a head of cabbage is a mighty good way to do it.

The cabbage's fresh green looks, crisp-tender texture and delicately distinctive flavor will give your March meals a head start on the look and taste of spring. The vegetable's exceptional wealth of vitamins including thiamine, riboflavin and niacin and of important minerals, will help to keep the family's health tip-top. Its down-to-earth price will be a booster for the budget.

Because the cabbage is so economical and accessible—in the market in large volume 12 months a year—we sometimes tend to take it for granted, overlooking its high glamour potential. True, cabbage is fine served plain boiled or in cole slaw—but its talents by no means stop there. It can star in such attractive, mouth-exciting presentations as cabbage wedges drenched in sour cream and chives. It is delicious baked in a creamy, cheese-topped casserole or braised with celery or other fresh vegetables.

The red variety of cabbage can make beautiful color and flavor music in any dish. An example is its brightening, taste-tempting role in today's recipe for superconsomme in which it highlights a blend of beef stock, pure onions and spices.

There's nothing either upstart or lowly about cabbage's social status. Its family history goes back 4,000 years to the eastern Mediterranean and Asia Minor. Egyptians once enthroned cabbage heads on elaborate altars and worshipped them as gods. Peasants of ancient Greece ascribed to cabbage all sorts of magical qualities—from aiding in sobriety to growing hair on bald pate. When Publius Syrus (around 42 B.C.) tossed off a maxim to the effect that "the who has plenty of pepper will pepper his cabbage" he testified to the fact that Roman epicureans habitually savored and favored cabbage.

To help you capitalize on the cabbage's charm and versatility here are some unhackneyed cabbage recipes developed by the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association.

Cabbage With Sour Cream Sauce

- 1 medium head (11 pounds) cabbage
- 1-inch boiling water
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup sour cream
- 1 cup cabbage liquid
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon chopped fresh chives

Wash cabbage and cut into wedges. Place in a saucepan with boiling water and 1 teaspoon of the salt. Cook, uncovered, 8 minutes. Cover and cook until crisp-tender, 8 to 10 minutes. Place wedges on a warm serving platter. Heat sour cream with 1 cup of the cabbage liquid and salt but do not boil. Pour over cabbage. Garnish with fresh chopped chives. Yield: 6 servings.

- 1 medium head red cabbage
- 2 cups boiling consomme
- 3 whole cloves
- 1 small white onion
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine

1. 1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
1 tablespoon cider vinegar
Wash and shred cabbage. Place in a saucepan with consomme. Stick cloves in whole onion and add. Cook, uncovered, 20 to 25 minutes or until crisp-tender. Remove the onion. Drain. Add butter or margarine, nutmeg, salt, pepper and cider vinegar. Serve hot. Yield: 6 servings.

Braised Cabbage and Celery

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 quart coarsely shredded cabbage

Ocean View Park Opening Set for March 28

Everything's Pico for the new things old and some things new. Ocean View - Amusement Park that is the exciting new open space Saturday, March 28 with fireworks.

The new items planned are a new roller coaster for the kiddies and a new ride in the kiddie area will be re-arranged to adjust for this new ride; a new building to house the Snake and Rattlesnake exhibits; new lighting and remodeling of the miniature Golf Course; and two new amusement skill games to replace the former basketball game. Shortly after the fire on February 24 of last year, this long-established amusement center was closed, replaced and replanned most of their buildings, rides and amusement games. The principal ride additions then were a new Merry-Go-Round, Twister Ride, a Lark-in-the-Hand (Pretzel Ride), and a brand new Ballroom located on the ground floor. This re-arrangement allowed for a new Parking Lot at the north end of the Park to add to the one already at the south end, giving the Fun Center a parking capacity of over 1,000 cars at one time. Of course all of the regular rides will be open and operating, having undergone a winter overhauling, refurbishing and painting. Did you know that a daily safety test is made on each of the rides every day before the Park opens for business, and that additional inspections are made at regular periods throughout each day by the ride superintendent and his staff? The ever-popular favorites are still in demand. They include the Skyrocket, the Cuddle-up, Ferris Wheel, Fly-Off-Pole, Giant Aerial Swing, and Old Mill, among others.

The Easter Holiday week-end will feature fireworks on Saturday night, March 28; a Fashion Parade on Sunday, March 29, at the Outdoor Stage at 2:30 P.M. and on Monday, the traditional Easter Egg Hunt will be held at 1 p.m. Trafton Robertson, well-known radio personality, will supervise and direct the judging of the Fashion Parade. Double Domino 21 at Land of Promise

PRIZE AWARD
Barnes Allen, our Assistant County Agent, has gone on a diet. He is trying to win the No-belly Prize.

Everybody down Blackwater way has been talking about Ralph Frost's recent purchase of the $2000 polled Hereford Bull from Roanoke River Ranch at Jackson, N.C. This bull caused even more comment when he arrived at the Land of Promise Farm in all his glory.

Double Domino 21 is his registered name, but he gets called "Slick" more often. "Slick" has reasons to be proud since he has a tremendous history of show winnings in his background. He has a half brother that was a grand champion in 1956 at the North Carolina State Fair, champion at the Dixie Classic Show, reserve champion at the Atlantic Rural Exposition, reserve champion at the Eastern National show in Maryland and reserve champion at the North Carolina Hereford Show. In 1957 another half brother was champion at the West Virginia State Fair, champion at the North Carolina State Fair and champion at the North Carolina Dixie Classic and Reserve Champion in Stateville in the North Carolina Hereford Show. In 1958 two half brothers stood second at the National Poll Show in the two-bull group and three half brothers stood second in the three-bull group at the National Show. "Slick" was in the get of sire class and stood third in the National Poll Show. At the February 18 show in 1959 at the North Carolina Hereford Show "Slick" stood second in the class to the champion bull.

We are expecting good things of "Slick" at the Frost farm. His show circuit days are gone and he has a bigger job now and that is producing some real fancy calves for Ralph Frost.

Double Domino 21 Hereford Bull

Our corn producers felt that even though we are producing high yields of corn that we were not realizing sufficient net profits. To try to determine how profit could be increased we organized and carried out 11 corn net return demonstrations. In nine out of 11 cases we did increase net profit above what the farmer was ordinarily receiving. Due to the fertilization costs being one of the biggest costs the corn producers in cooperation with the Agricultural Committee of the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce held a Fertilizer School.

SMALL GRAIN
Our livestock producers have to purchase one-half of their feed grains they feed their livestock. Therefore, the big problem was to increase the acres of oats and barley on farms.

SOYBEANS
Farmers are realizing several problems in soybeans: low yields, inadequate weed control, insect control, and poor harvesting methods. To help solve some of these problems we sent to all producers a production series outlining all of the recommended practices in soybean production. We also held a Soybean Insect Bull Session to help farmers determine when to and when not to apply control measures. Weeds are a problem in any crop, but more so in soybeans in that we do not have an economical material that will satisfactorily control weeds in soybeans. One demonstration was held using seven different materials to find a satisfactory material. I am sorry to report that none was found.

PASTURE AND FORAGE CROPS
In that field we worked toward the objective of grazing 1 of an animal unit per acre grazing land. Pasture, hay and silage are important to dairy, beef, and hog farmers. Therefore, much time was spent in that particular field.

To help increase the productivity of pasture and forage crops a complete demonstration program was carried on:

- 1 alfalfa seedling demonstration,
- 1 Potomac Orchard Grass demonstration,
- 1 Sudan-Pearl Millet Grazing Companion demonstration,
- 1 Red Clover Hay demonstration,
- 1 nitrogen fertilization demonstration with a tour,
- 1 silage test programs with VPI.

SWEET POTATOES
There are several problems sweet potato growers are facing. Some were potatoes cracking, low yields, poor handling and inadequate storage facilities. We cooperated with the Experiment Station with one producer demonstration conducted 5 demonstrations of the Nemogold variety on Nemogold infested land and 2 soil fumigation demonstrations to control nematodes.

I believe that the work over the past year is beginning to pay off because farmers are now dipping seed stock, cutting sprouts, and some are hill selecting to increase the yields and to improve the quality for the consumer.

IRISH POTATOES
The big problem seems to be low yields and low prices. We worked with the Experiment Station on a production demonstration to increase the yields, thus increasing the profit derived.

We also worked with the Farm Bureau of the two counties in arranging for farmers to use Myers

Probably Simesan Bel is the best material to use due to its faster action. Mix three (3) pounds of Simesan Bel to thirty (30) gallons of water. A momentary dip is all that is necessary. This solution does not lose its strength during use, but when the volume is insufficient to cover the potatoes, a new solution should be added.

This material is available locally.

FARM BUILDING CONSTRUCTION ON INCREASE

Several new farm buildings have been completed recently and are in the construction stage with the completion date in the very near future.

These are of three types—a Milking Parlor, a hay storage and tramp shed barn and pig parlor.

Almost completed is a modern milking parlor on Simon Hershberger's farm. Upon completion Simon will have a very up-to-date five-stall parlor with pipe line and bulk tank. This type of system of milking decreases the amount of time spent in milking and also the cleaning of the barn.

Also near completion is Alec Brown's Pole Barn for hay storage and tramp shed. This barn will give Alec sufficient space for low cost storage of hay and also lounging space for his dairy cattle. This pole type construction is the cheapest method that we have today of building any type of barn with the exception of milk parlors.

There are several pig parlors that have been constructed within the last year. Bill Hudgins has a couple. Johnny Hutchinson has one. S. W. Buckner, one, and Billy Malone probably has the most recently completed Parlor.

Probably the forerunner of all pig parlors in the county is the one constructed by C. L. Christian three years ago. Mr. Christian has told me that he has had a number of people to visit his farm to view the parlor and get ideas of construction for their own. There are three pig parlors that are now in the construction stage—Mr. Robert Samuels has just about completed his. Gailther Jackson, should be just about finished by now, and Frank Williams has just started.

Bryan Dudley at Back Bay is going to increase his laying flock and is building a tremendous laying house on his farm. The building is of the pole type construction with homestead covering on both the sides and the top.

Most of these buildings have been constructed according to farm building plans from VPI provided through my office. Many ideas on construction can be received through these plans and I would suggest that any person contemplating building any farm building check with me for plans before starting construction. These plans are free for the asking.

1959 EXTENSION ACTIVITIES

Once each year I like to go over the Extension Activities we have conducted during the past year. It is surprising even to me and interesting to me to realize at a glance the educational program that was conducted here in this county. With this thought in mind, I thought that maybe you would be interested in some of the things that were done. For the purpose of shortness I'll break the activities down in the various commodities that we produce and present some of the major problems and

CORN

To try to determine how profit could be increased we organized and carried out 11 corn net return demonstrations. We also worked with the Farm Bureau of the two counties in arranging for farmers to use Myers

Field in Norfolk to sell their products.

POULTRY
The big problem is changing from backyard flocks to commercial flocks of 1000 or more. In this past year we worked a great deal with poultry producers and held a bi-county Poultry School.

DAIRY
We worked with two Dairy Herd Improvement Associations, held two Dairy Herd Improvement Association analysis meetings, cooperated with the Agriculture Committee of the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce in holding the Short Course for Dairywomen and assisted many individuals with individual problems.

HOGS
We worked with farmers individually on farrowing houses and pig parlors. We continued the big push with the 4-H Club Program and personally assisted in farmers buying seven meat-type hogs.

SHEEP
Our objective here is to make sheep an industry rather than using sheep as scavengers. We held three lamb pools with 350 head sold, a Wool Pool was held with 6000 pounds of wool sold. Commercial sheep shears sheared 700 sheep. We gave 20 demonstrations on docking and castrating and assisted two farmers in purchasing pure-bred ducks.

BEEF CATTLE
We worked with the veterinarians in the county in getting the county accredited for T.B. and Bangs. Each producer was visited during the year and discussed with him recommended methods of production and marketing. Ninety-six feeder calves were sold in organized calf sales.

Little Theatre Presenting Final Play of Season

The Moon is Blue, a charming comedy by F. Hugh Herbert, will be the final play of the season by the Virginia Beach Little Theatre. It will be presented at the Virginia Beach High School on April 14 and 15.

The leading parts will be played by Dolores East and Lon Beckman, supported by Angie Alexander and Ashley Haycox. Mrs. East will enact the role of Patty O'Neill, a native young girl with a somewhat enquiring mind. Her embarrassing innocence proves to complicate the lives of Donald, a young architect, played by Lon Beckman, and David, an older sophisticate, played by Angie Alexander. Mr. Haycox plays a New York policeman, father of Patty.

The play has unusual settings, designed by Neal Thomas, and production is under the direction of Bill Britton. Mrs. Ruth Maysary is directing the play.

Tickets will be available at the Box office on play nights.

Ruritans Hard At Work for Minstrel Show

Dropped in on the Princess Anne Ruritans. Minstrel rehearsal the other night at Princess Anne High School and got a real kick out of watching Clark Graves, piano, and John McFall, director, put the boys through their chorus practice.

The variety of voices is enormous and is really a series of surprises in that the little fellows turn out to have a top-born voice while the heavyweight boys sing tenor and indicate what he might do to your neck if you fail to appreciate his rendition.

Then too there are a few blues numbers that are real-blue as only a real lovely lonely lady can sing.

The good citizens of Princess Anne County will demonstrate their talents (hidden that is) along with the other members of the cast at the Princess Anne High School on April 17th and 18th at 8 p.m.

In the meantime I will look in on some of the activities of the other members of the cast for another brief preview next week.

Easter Seals Help Varied Causes, Ills

Services provided by the Easter Seal Society are not limited to persons with any particular type of handicap. This point was emphasized in a statement released today by R. H. Owen, President of the Princess Anne - Virginia Beach Chapter of the Virginia Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

"Last year, we rendered services to both crippled children and adults suffering from almost every conceivable kind of handicapping condition," Owen said. "These included arthritis, cerebral palsy, poliomyelitis, muscular dystrophy, multiple sclerosis, speech and hearing disorders, epilepsy, rheumatic fever, blind, mentally retarded, cancer, as well as all of the general orthopaedic disabilities."

Owen pointed out that the Society's program is primarily one of direct service to the individual. "While we are definitely interested in research into the causes and improved methods of treating the crippled, only two per cent of our funds are used for this purpose," Owen said. "We feel that our first responsibility is to the individual. We are dealing with the lives of human beings, and we cannot relegate this responsibility. At the same time, through our affiliation with the research program of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, we are making a modest contribution in this field."

Owen reported that returns from the current Easter Seal campaign everywhere who has not made his so far are encouraging, but urged contribution to be made before Easter.

Persons who have received Easter Seals through the mails may send a contribution to "Crippled Children" in care of the local postmaster.

The Enduring Message of Easter

City Council Pondering what To Do about Swimming Pool

The Virginia Beach City Council has a problem that it has taken under study. The problem involves a hotel swimming pool, nearly completed, constructed on city-owned property.

An attorney, Edward S. Ferebee, informed City Council at its meeting Monday that the almost completed swimming pool in front of the Sir Walter Hotel at 30th street and the Oceanfront is on city property.

Ferebee asked Council to permit completion of the swimming pool where it is and that the pool would be removed at any time the Council wishes.

Two questions were immediately raised:

"If anyone falls into the pool, and hurts himself, can he sue the city? If one hotel builds a pool on city property, won't other hotels want to also?"

The second question was immediately answered in the affirmative by Clarence Smith, a hotel operator, who said:

"If one hotel has the right to put a pool on city property, I think the others have the right to also."

Mayor W. Frank Dusch admitted that "I hardly know what to say."

Frank D. Tarrell suggested an ordinance which would require the city of Virginia Beach to establish, at the expense of owners of adjoining property, all city street lines. Both the question of the swimming pool and that of the proposed ordinance were under advisement for further study.

The City Council also passed on second reading a schedule of changes in licensing taxes. Three minor revisions of the new license ordinances were passed on first reading.

Local Man Given Honor by Oil Company in New York

A plaque commemorating the 10th anniversary of his association with The California Oil Company was presented last night, March 18, to L. Stanley Hodges of Virginia Beach, by W. S. Morris, vice president and general manager. Mr. Hodges is president of Allied Petroleum Co., Inc., which distributes "Chevron" gasolines and "RPM" Motor Oils in the Virginia Beach-Norfolk area.

The presentation took place in the Colonnades of the Essex House, New York City. The company is holding its 13th annual distributor meetings there.

Mr. Morris lauded Mr. Hodges for his company's contribution to

BABE RUTH TRYOUTS SET FOR APRIL 18

Tryouts for the Virginia Beach Babe Ruth baseball league are scheduled for April 18, according to Charlie Reed, league president. The tryouts will be held at the Virginia Beach High School gymnasium starting at 9 a.m. These trials are for boys 13, 14 and 15 years old. All those youngsters interested in trying out for one of the four teams should be present for the initial workouts.

Council Decides Property Lines Big Problem

A motion that an ordinance be passed which would require the city engineer to establish the owner's expense all street lines and boundary lines where private property joins city property was made and withdrawn by Councilman Frank Tarrell at a Virginia Beach City Council meeting Monday.

Tarrell made the proposal when it was reported that the Sir Walter Hotel had almost completed a swimming pool before learning it was located on a city street.

He withdrew the motion when Councilman Edward T. Caton voted, no, when polled by clerk Lewis Smith. "What's your idea Mr. Caton?" asked Tarrell.

"I'm not technically trained and I'd like more time to study this," stated Caton.

City Engineer Charles Kiley told the group his office makes such surveys when property owners request it. "We weren't asked for a survey on the property where the pool is being built," he declared.

"When a person comes to me with a plat and says, he owns the property I cannot have the title searched and a survey made," W. G. Holland, building inspector, stated. "I must take their word for it unless something happens to make me suspicious," he declared.

House Moving Request Denied By City Council

The Virginia Beach City Council Monday denied a request to move a house.

Mrs. Lewis A. Love made the request for permission to move a house from the 1008 block of 17th street to Holly Lake and Arctic Crescent.

Mrs. Love said she wanted to move the house from its present location so the site could be used for commercial purposes.

City Manager W. S. Russell Hatcher told Mrs. Love "we haven't approved moving a house into the city limits for more than 15 years. Why don't you tear the house down and use the lumber in a new house?" he asked.

"What is an old house?" Mrs. Love asked.

"I don't know for sure, some houses are not old at 50 years of age," Hatcher explained.

"If we let the bars down now we will be setting a dangerous precedent," he declared. "Other houses people want to move in might not be as nice as yours, but only for a few years," Hatcher predicted.

On a motion by Councilman Frank Tarrell, seconded by Councilman John McCormack, the house was voted unanimously to deny the application.

RICHARDSON HOME ON BEACH GARDEN TOUR

The home of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Richardson, Jr., is distinctive in its superb setting. Situated on a high point jutting out into lovely Crystal Lake, the water can be seen from almost every window. With its beautiful landscaping, innumerable plantings of azaleas and evergreens, it presents a really delightful picture.

On entering the house one is entranced by the charm of subtly blended colors. Pale green carpeting throughout reflects the subtle shades of the walls in the hall and living room.

In the dining room these same shades are carried out in the richly ornamental wall paper—its scenes reminiscent of the Italian Lake country. This room is also highlighted by touches of gold.

The large, jalousied porch is especially noteworthy, not only for its view but again for the lure of pleasing colors. Avocado green walls and pale creamy beige furniture, set off by a most unusual floor, seem very enticing on a hot summer's day.

This home radiates the warmth of hospitality. Truly, here is a gracious living. This home is one of six to be opened on the Virginia Beach Garden Tour on April 21st, during Historic Garden Week.

L. Stanley Hodges, second from left, a resident of Virginia Beach is shown as he was honored by the California Oil Company in New York City recently. Hodges is head of Allied Petroleum Company and handled California Oil products in this area. At left is E. E. Wall, president of California Oil, and at Hodges' right are W. S. Morris and W. I. Watt, also of the oil company.

News and Views of Aragona Village

By ELISE HARVEY

ARAGONA COMMUNITY CENTER NOW UNDER WAY

After a recent meeting of members of the organization, Mr. Harold Spilka, president of the Aragona Community Center, announced that in cooperation with other interested leaders of the Aragona Civic League, definite plans were formulated for the incorporation of the Aragona Community Center.

Residents and homeowners in this community of new and modern homes are in agreement that there is a pressing need for a recreational center where playground and game facilities will be available for the entertainment and pleasure of the children of the village.

Mr. John Aragona has very graciously offered to deed a five-acre tract of land for the use and benefit of the Community Center as soon as legal formalities are concluded.

Organization of the Community Center is under the leadership of Mr. Harold Spilka, president; Mr. Joseph McDaniels, vice president; and Mr. Curtis Chastain, secretary-treasurer. Comdr. Earl Hansen, president of the Aragona Civic League and his associates are taking an active part in this endeavor. Commander Hansen has offered financial assistance toward the legal expense in the incorporation of the project.

Mr. Spilka stated that Mr. Simpson, Commonwealth Attorney for Princess Anne County, has been very generous in giving helpful suggestions and aid insofar as the legal aspects of the undertaking were concerned. Also, Mr. Etheridge, Treasurer and Tax Collector of Princess Anne County, has given aid and advice regarding the tax requirements of the organization. Members of the Planning Committee voted a resolution expressing thanks and appreciation for the assistance rendered by both Mr. Simpson and Mr. Etheridge.

Mr. Spilka stated further that tentative plans have been drawn for the proposed building on the site which has been selected. Committees have been formed for the purpose of deciding ways and means to provide funds for this worthy project. These committees and community leaders will meet on Monday evening, March 30th, for the purpose of concluding the final plans for the incorporation of the organization. It is believed that actual construction on the playground site will be begun within the next 30 days.

TALENT SHOW REAL SUCCESS

Mrs. Chris Wright and Mrs. Lester A. Silva, director and producer of the talent show which was presented at the Aragona Elementary School on March 20th, announced that the children participating in this production, Mrs. Athene Azevedo, Mr. Phil Krome, accompanist substituting for Mrs. Ruth Snyder who could not appear, and guest star, Miss "Leticia," gave an excellent performance. From the cheerful and enthusiastic comments heard in the village after the show, many expressed the hope that the group would give another performance at a later date. Net proceeds realized from the sale of tickets will be contributed to the building fund for the construction of the proposed Community Recreational Center now under way in the village and sponsored by the Aragona Civic League and the Aragona Village Community Center.

There were dances, songs and skits. Some of the highlights of the show were: Miss "Leticia," the guest star, executed a series of beautiful dances of her native Brazil. She has appeared on Broadway, in "Babes in General," Jimmy and Garry Vaughn, steel guitar and ukulele, played several selections; Barbara O'Rourke sang, and "Baton and Acrobat" by Gale Nielson and Carol Vaughn; clarinet solo by George Schneider; piano solo by Phil Krome; solo by Jeanne Wright; Hula and singing by trio, Christina

PRABYTERIAN YOUTH GROUP VISIT NAVAL FACILITIES

"Hey, there's my kids"—This remark was made by more than one Navy man when the Christ Presbyterian Church Youth Fellowship of Aragona Village were guests of the Naval Air Reserve Training Unit, NAS, Norfolk, recently.

The tour was arranged so that the children visited both surface and air facilities of the Navy. Inspection of aircraft was provided by NARTU Norfolk and Squadron VP 44. Aircraft traffic control was explained to the children as they visited the Operations Traffic lower. Shipboard procedures were shown when they toured the USS Forrestal (CVA 59). Logistic support of the Navy was explained by their guide, Chief J. E. Wade, as their bus drove about the station.

One of the highlights of the tour was when the children were allowed to eat at the general mess. As one of the group remarked, "At home this would be just like sitting down to Thanksgiving Day dinner."

EDITORIAL SPEAKING

Easter—1959

This is Eastertime and a time to rededicate our faith. This is Easter... a time of promise and joy. There is no more joyous occasion than Easter. Against the setting of Spring, it touches the land with beauty, bringing a new upsurge of hope, thrilling the young, comforting the old.

The bell rings, and its message is a clarion call across the countryside. Beneath it, white lilies touched by the sunlight look upward toward a cloudless sky. This is Easter.

From one of our readers comes the following poem:

EASTER BELLS

By Marie Maxim

When I hear great music I can see
Angel flights in the melody,

The world is blossoming and gay;
It is a sunny, golden day.

And now more beauty meets my sight
Glowing stars in a velvet night;
Soft moonbeams dancing on the sea,
A night of singing mystery.

Then morning spreads wide, crimson wings,
God's gift to all of living things;
And when He puts to rest the day,
I hear the church bells far away.

Then, like the voice of our Great Lord,
An organ strikes a mighty chord;
Or on the trembling twilight air
I feel God's spirit everywhere.

These Holy Week Services have such dignity, sacramental force, and power for nourishing Christian life (which cannot be supplied by substitutes), that they should be restored to the people. And so the Church, by simplifying the services and restoring them to their proper time setting, makes it possible for Catholics to attend in great numbers and to reap the rich spiritual benefits of Holy Week. Please make a sacrifice and try to attend the Holy Week Services. Go To Holy Communion Every Day, and join in the responses and prayers so that the people of the Church will surpass all other Christians in their devotion to their Lord and Saviour.

Injured Seal Caught After Awkward Chase Later Dies

(Speculated from the Norfolk Ledger-Star)

Most anyone can catch a seal from a boat, but it takes Josh Vaughan, operator of a fishing pier here, to catch one on dry land.

The seal showed up Monday about 9 a.m. in front of the Coast Guard Station. Coast Guardsmen gave chase and forced it onto the beach. However, they gave ground when it showed its teeth. The seal continued on its way.

Vaughan splashed the seal as it swam under his pier. As he watched, it came ashore between Rudee Inlet and Camp Periford.

Vaughan, armed with two nets and wearing a hood, and Dan Hickox, both of Hickox Island, moved in on one side with a camera and Vaughan came from the other.

The seal splashed Vaughan and started to wiggle back toward the water. Josh started to run the 50 yards separating him from the seal. He had a net in each hand. His progress was slow. The seal's head was not. It slipped back in the water and floated along looking at Vaughan with a nasty expression on its face.

Vaughan slipped further down the beach and hid behind a sand dune to await the seal's arrival.

Sure enough, the seal flapped out on the beach again and started soaking up the sun. Vaughan crept along on all fours, with a net in each hand and the hip boots scooping up sand.

At the last moment, Vaughan stood up and rushed the seal.

INTERESTING

Some people believe that flush markers are a departure from traditions, while they are, in fact, a revival of an old custom, according to biblical scholars. The oldest cemetery in the world—on the Mount of Olives, in Jerusalem—has flush slabs for markers.

Stones are eventually destroyed by the elements which attack them. They will chip, crack and crumble away—whereas bronze will endure and become more beautiful as time goes on.

The use of flush memorials means a substantial saving to the purchaser. Memorial Garden type cemeteries can sell lots at a lower price because the perpetual care cost less on this type of cemetery.

An irrevocable trust fund can never be touched. Only the income from it can be used, solely for the purpose of maintaining the park.

Opening Events at Ocean View Park

The annual preparation for leading Ocean View Amusement Park for its 1959 season, which opens Saturday, March 28, is about completed. Over 75 workers have been industriously working the past few months rebuilding and refurbishing the rides and general properties. Over two tons of paint have been used to give the Park its new spring colors.

An exciting EASTER HOLIDAY WEEKEND is planned for the public by the management of this long-established amusement center and the kick-off will be a Saturday night celebration with FIREWORKS.

The EASTER FASHION PARADE CONTEST follows on Sunday, March 29, at 2:30 p.m. on the Outdoor Stage. Many classifications of age groups will be judged as to the best-dressed. TRAFFIC ROBERTSON, radio personality, will supervise the judging.

Monday, at 1 p.m. there will be the traditional EASTER EGG HUNT on the sandy shores of Chesapeake Bay which fronts the Amusement Park. The participants will be limited to 12 years of age for both girls and boys. Over 50 prizes will be awarded to the lucky finders of the eggs buried in the sand. A SPECIAL AWARD will go to the finders of the gold and silver eggs.

The Park will open daily at Noon throughout the Easter Holidays and will return to a 6 p.m. opening schedule thereafter, except on Saturdays and Sundays when the opening time will be at Noon.

Admission to Ocean View Amusement Park is always FREE.

Ada Cavallo and Orchestra to Open At The Cavalier

The season's entertainment schedule at The Cavalier gets underway March 27 with the opening of Ada Cavallo and her orchestra in The Hunt Room.

Vivacious Miss Cavallo and the band bring the same Caribbean and modern American music to The Hunt Room with which they scored such a success at Las Vegas' Tropicana, Washington's Statler Hilton, Atlantic City's Shelbourne Hotel and other notable supper clubs.

Miss Cavallo, an Italian, was born in Caided Trujillo and attended The Dominican Republic Conservatory of Music. Her father was once accompanist for the renowned Gail-Curei and concert master for The Dominican Republic symphony. After further study at Baltimore's Peabody Institute she sang with a number of fine bands as well as being featured at plush night clubs. In the entertainment field they say she can sing in half a dozen different languages yet knock off "Lazy River" with all the authenticity of a bayon blues singer.

With Bob Kasba's masterful touch at the piano backing up the orchestra, this lively orchestra will be featured in The Hunt Room until May 29 when Harry Taylor opens for his fourth successive season at The Cavalier.

PINK LADY NIGHT CLUB PLANNED AT CAPE COLONY

The Pink Lady Night Club (alias The Cape Colony) is now taking reservations for its gala evening on Friday, April 3. The Pink Lady Club, strictly a formal dress establishment, will serve cocktails at seven, followed by dinner and dancing at eight. Show time is 10:30 and will feature many "well-known" acts. Reservations will be taken through April 1, for members and out of town guests only. Reservations are limited to 200.

Final Plans Made For Benefit Dance Saturday Night

Virginia Beach Alpha Chi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority is making final plans for its Fifth Annual Spring Dance to benefit Tidewater Association for Retarded Children. This dance will be held Saturday night, March 28, at Port Story Officers' Club. Music will be furnished by Wilson Neillgar and his Cavaliers, and Lucky Balloons and Door Prizes will be awarded to lucky winners.

The Tidewater Association for Retarded Children is a non-profit organization of parents and friends helping the retarded children of this area. The Pre-School Training Center is located at 1129 Pineridge Road, Broad Creek Village. It is the mission of the Center to serve the young retarded child, regardless of race, religion or degree of retardation. However, there is now a waiting list because of limited facilities. The Board of the Association is at present attempting to secure property in Princess Anne County with high hopes for a new building by next September. At present, the school is comprised of 63 students; this includes eight colored children who are being served at a church on East Princess Anne Road. This service is extended free of charge to parents, if necessary in fact over half of these 63 children are using scholarship funds. No child has ever been refused due to lack of funds.

The Virginia Beach Alpha Chi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority is one of the local organizations which supports the Building Fund of TARC. After adding proceeds of this dance to their past contributions, the total amount will be enough to build a room in the new building.

Tickets for the dance will be available at the door, Port Story Officers' Club for $3.00 per couple.

The Naval Research Laboratory employs a radio tracking system known as "Minitrack" to track the earth-circling satellite.

The MIXING BOWL..

IT'S Fun TO COOK

By LUCILE CLARK
SUN-NEWS FOOD EDITOR

For the very latest in food fads and foibles... for practical, step-by-step recipes that please both palate and pocketbook, read the "Mixing Bowl" by Lucile Clark each Thursday in the Sun-News.

Tomorrow is Good Friday and for Christians, the Easter season is a time of triumphant celebration. But long before the time of Christ, a similar celebration was held, joyfully honoring the return of Spring. Pagans worshipped their Goddess of Spring, Eostre, by eating a special kind of bun. Both the name Easter and the custom of eating hot cross buns have evolved from this ancient tradition.

During lent, let your family share this charming Easter custom by serving light, delicately spiced Hot Cross Buns.

Homemade buns are extra—delicious when made with a margarine with a delicate natural flavor or butter if the budget permits.

For a special good Friday breakfast or any time you can serve these Hot Cross Buns with pride because you've made them yourself.

Hot Cross Buns

In Easter Parade

Served in small splendor is the king of lamb cuts, a hand-somely decorated Frenched Leg of Lamb. The orange shells which are served as a garnish are the exact for the leg of lamb at this Easter dinner spread.

Bells are ringing, choirs are singing and spring's latest styles and colors are all being modeled—because it's Easter.

Easter presents another opportunity to see a parade... a parade of Easter-time food fancies.

In this case, the leg of lamb has been Frenched, that is, the meat has been removed from the lower end of the shank bone so as not to expose more than 1 inch.

Shopping and Preparing Shopping for and preparing this meat cut is relatively easy. Reba Stiggs, meat expert, suggests that for an average size leg of lamb, one be purchased that weighs between 5 and 6 pounds.

To roast, place the leg of lamb on a rack in an open roasting pan, fat side up, and allow it to roast in a slow oven (300° F.) for 30 to 35 minutes per pound. This will take between 2½ and 3½ hours.

If using a roast meat thermometer, the thermometer will register 175° F. when the meat is medium-done and 180° F. when the meat is well-done.

The fruit cup garnishes are actually quite simple to make. Cut firm oranges in half, and carefully remove the fruit from the shell. Notch the edges of the orange shell so they look like baskets. Cut the fruit into small pieces and return to the orange baskets. Top each basket with a strawberry.

Punch down—turn a time or two, let rise again.

HELPING HAND CIRCLE

The Helping Hand Circle of the Bayside Christian Church gave the patients of the Shore Drive Convalescent Home a "St. Patrick's Day Party" on March 17th.

Mrs. J. K. McBride, chairman of the Friendly Service group of the circle, Mrs. J. A. Bibb and Mrs. R. J. Rhodes were dressed all in green for the occasion with "green bonnets" to top off their costumes. They played games and sang Irish songs. Some of the families of the patients were present and entered into the fun.

Mrs. Sims, owner and manager of the convalescent home, made movies of the occasion. Green cake and green ice cream were served to spark the party. The ladies of the circle brought a basket with them, appropriately decorated for the day and gave each patient a gift.

It is the custom of the circle to visit the home on special holidays and bring some cheer with them. The "home" is anxiously awaiting their next party.

BAYSIDE LIONS CLUB

The Bayside Lions Club met Wednesday night, March 18, at Shore Drive Inn with the president, William D. Nage, presiding.

Guest speaker for the evening, H. W. McNeill, manager of Manufacturing Standards Ford Motor Co., introduced by W. L. Graham, Supervisor of Employee Service and Training, at the Norfolk Ford Plant, who was presented by John Fisher, program chairman of the evening.

McNeill used as his topic "Design for Living." He talked about the revolutionary changes in the motor car industry and the high cost of human life and property damage which has accompanied these changes.

There are now about 65 million motor vehicles on our highways. In the next 15 years there will probably be 90 million vehicles in operation. Each year about 40,000 lives are lost on our highways and hundreds of thousands of injuries sustained. The estimates cost of all this is about $3 billion dollars. McNeill said that the Ford Motor Co. and other car manufacturers are deeply concerned about the high rate of accidents and are continuously studying ways of making their cars safer. He mentioned many of the safety features which have been developed in recent years, many of which were introduced in the Ford car. Some of these were: Safety glass windshields and windows, larger windows for better vision, safety door catches, flexible steering wheels, dashboard crash pads, power brakes and power steering, steel body construction.

McNeill said that if all cars were equipped with these safety features there would be a sharp drop in fatalities and injuries, perhaps about one-third.

The Ford Motor Co. and others are promoting "Driver Training" in the schools. Ford Motor Co. has also helped with a research program at Cornell University which is conducted for the purpose of reducing automobile accidents. He told the club that it is very important that the public demands safer cars, safer drivers and safer highways in order to make our roads safer.

BAYSIDE AREA SUNDAY SCHOOL SERVICE

The second annual Easter Sunrise Service for the Bayside area will be held at 8:30 a.m. at Del Haven Gardens. The guest speaker will be the Rev. Edgar A. Potts, pastor of Epworth Methodist Church. In case of rain the service will be held at Haygood Methodist Church.

New Designs in Farm Structures To Aid Agriculture

New designs and materials for use in farm buildings will soon prove a strong boost for the agricultural revolution which has been in the making in this region in recent years, it was forecast this week.

Experts report that crop production efficiency has increased about 40 per cent in the past five years but that thousands of farm buildings are out of step with crop and livestock production gains.

Now, however, the aluminum industry is applying livestock efficiency studies to structure design and is developing new farm buildings with productivity in mind. In the future, farm structures will not be merely buildings but an integral part of production economics.

Citing significant changes now in the works, the current issue of the "Aluminum Bulletin" points out that research has shown that broilers, hens, hogs and dairy animals produce more efficiently in the South if they are kept cool. Because it has a high sun-reflecting quality, aluminum is now being used for animal housing to reduce heat. The "Bulletin" adds:

"Studies show that cattle make better gains when shade is available. The result: shade makes a difference. A California experiment suggests that outdoor pens, in conjunction with shade will provide bigger gains in beef production. Fan-circulated air in a corral has increased weight gains by as much as one pound a day over gains of animals not receiving the benefit of a blower."

"Research investigations into the effect of temperature, humidity and environment control on livestock are expected to lead to another application of aluminum. Year-round temperature control takes on new meaning in the current trend toward confinement of meat animals for greater yield."

Aluminum is now being put to use, both alone and in combination with other materials, in such things as facing on wall-board and vapor barrier materials to achieve closer temperature-humidity regulation.

Already aluminum tobacco barns are springing up over the region, as are general-purpose aluminum barns.

The new look in agriculture, the publication reports, emphasizes flexibility so that aluminum is becoming one of the keys to the future of "packaged" farm structures.

For example, a farmer is going to be able to buy a complete prefabricated hen or hog house which he can erect in a few hours. He can take the building down whenever he desires and move it to another location or sell it.

Aluminum's versatility also indicates other developments for agricultural use, including machinery shelters and machines themselves when soil compaction is to be avoided.

Replacement of obsolete buildings by efficient farm structures will aid farmers to stop the drain on their profits by increasing overall agricultural efficiency, the agricultural economists predict.

Your Social Security

Learning the full meaning of social security came almost too late for Orville Morris. Like some of his co-workers Orville had never looked into his part in social security. Somehow he had assumed over the years that social security payments would just about take care of his family when he died. He figured, too, that social security retirement benefits in his old age probably would be enough for himself and his wife.

Orville missed the Union meeting he had missed out to be so important to him. Then he heard a social security representative tell of facts which were completely new to him. He had never heard of anything like that before. He had never heard of anything like that before.

Ad, unless at least one child is disabled or the widow is over 62 years of age. He also learned that monthly retirement payments for a man and wife could not exceed $196.00—a substantial amount, but possibly not enough to take care of everything.

Orville had guessed that social security benefits would be paid each month to his wife regardless of her age when he died, and he never knew the amounts of retirement payments. Also, he had heard that social security pays a worker's burial expenses at time of death—he learned for the first time that the maximum lump-sum death payment was $255. The reason seemed clear to Orville when the social security official explained: "Social security benefits were not planned to amount to full replacement of lost earnings due to death, retirement or disability. They are a foundation upon which greater financial security can be provided through savings or other types of insurance."

Now 45, Orville figured he could still supplement his future social security benefits with some savings and perhaps a little more commercial insurance. Yes, he thought, it was a very important

Send to E. R. Cockrell, Jr., Princess Anne, Va.

Twelve days from today we will start shearing sheep in Princess Anne County.

We have made arrangements with three men who are commercial sheep shearers to come to Princess Anne the week of April 6 to shear a large portion of the county's 1,500 sheep.

If you have not received a letter from me regarding shearing your sheep and you want your sheep sheared, then complete the above form to-day and send it to me. I will call you regarding the approximate hour the shearers will be at your farm.

The cost is $6.00 per head or $7.50 for the set-up, whichever is more.

If you have just a few head it would be cheaper to haul your sheep to a neighbor's farm who has sheep. If this is the case you should indicate on the form where you want to shear.

One of the most difficult things that we have encountered in the past years is running into unscheduled sheep. Remember if you haul your sheep to someone else's farm I must know about it before hand. It doesn't seem like 8 or 10 sheep unscheduled would create a difficulty, but when you run into this two or three times a day it makes the end of the schedule very very late. This year we are going to shear the scheduled sheep first.

PEN THE BEEF BULL

Most beef cattlemen prefer to have their calves come in late winter—about 60 days before grass. Less odder troubles develop at this season and the screw worm hazard is reduced. Also, the calves are old enough to graze when grass comes on and big enough to consume the extra milk their mothers give when grazing lush pasturage in spring. If cows and calves have plenty of grass till fall, the feeder calves reach market weights in prime condition.

To have calves come in February, breed the cows in May. Pen the bull now and get him in breeding condition. The bull is half the herd. He should be registered and typical of the breed—beefy, thick and compactly built. A 1-year old bull can be bred to 10 or 12 cows, one service each. He ought to be 2 or 2 1/2 years old before allowed to run with the herd. At this age he can take care of 25 to 35 cows. Prior to the breeding season feed him all the grain he will eat plus one pound of grain a day per 100 pounds of weight—equal parts by weight of corn, rolled oats and wheat bran is ideal.

SEED SPRING OATS

There's a piece of ground on nearly every farm suited to oats—medium fertile, sandy loam soil. Seeded now it will provide some grazing plus a crop of (1) hay, (2) silage or (3) grain, whichever suits your situation best. Be sure to pick a spring variety.

Fertilize as you would for wheat—400 to 600 pounds per acre of 10-10-10. Seed spring oats a little heavier than fall-seeded sorts. Drill about 3 bushels per acre.

BEEF FEEDING TIP
Beef Cattle in Princess Anne have "wintered well," never before have I seen Princess Anne cattle come through in such fine condition.

Now, however, there is the perennial problem of getting the cattle to eat during the last three weeks or so before the grass is high enough to graze. Whatever you do, don't let the cattle lose weight running around over the pasture looking for grass. Put them in a dry lot, or in a very small field which has a little grass in it. They will then keep on eating plenty of winter feed until the grass is ready.

It's also time to select the heifer calves you are going to save this fall. Keep the heifer calves from the cows which have done the best job in the herd. Sort them out when they are the right age for vaccinating them for Bangs disease and Blackleg. Don't save any heifers for replacements except the very best ones. Cull out the cows which are poor milkers, calve late, or have some physical defects.

ANTIBIOTIC HELPFUL DURING STRESS PERIODS IN POULTRY FLOCKS

Feeding antibiotics to laying pullets is desirable during periods of extreme temperatures, after vaccination, or at the time of certain disease outbreaks.

The advantages of high level feeding of antibiotics have been indicated in research, as well as through observation. At Clemson Experiment Station tests where aureomycin and terramycin were fed at 100 grams per ton in all all-mash ration to laying pullets suffering from a natural infection of chronic respiratory disease gave significant increases in egg production. The layers receiving the antibiotics needed less feed to produce a dozen eggs. The workers also report that the mortality rate was reduced and body weight increased when the antibiotics were used.

At VPI, scientists have long believed that the feeding of antibiotics is of greatest benefit when given at high levels (100 to 200 grams per ton) during periods of stress and/or when the egg production is relatively low.

JOBS OUTLINED FOR GRAPE GROWERS

When warm spring days come along it's a good time to work in the vineyard. Pruning of dead or diseased canes and knotty insect-fested wood will do much to improve the vigor of grapevines and reduce insect and disease troubles.

All pruned wood, dried-up berries, dead leaves, and rubbish should be collected and burned to reduce trouble next season. Sanitation will help, and a dormant spray of lime sulfur will kill fungus spores that may affect the crop.

SMALL WOODLAND OWNER HOLDS KEY TO VIRGINIA'S SUPPLY OF TIMBER

Even if all forest land in the United States capable of growing commercial crops of trees is put fully to work, the country may have difficulty meeting its future timber needs.

Increases in population point to further urbanization of land, further development of the national highway system, more needs for reservoir sites, and additional use of forest land for recreational and water yield purposes.

The answer to the question of whether such land pressure might prevent the nation from meeting future timber needs lies largely in the hands of farmers and other small forest tract owners. In the nation, three-fourths of the commercial forest land is privately owned. In Virginia, 41% of the 15,283,000 acres of forest land is owned by farmers or is in small private holdings.

Over 2,000 industries in Virginia use wood as their basic raw material. The wood-using industries in Virginia rank second among all manufacturing industries in the number of people employed, and second in salaries and wages paid to employees.

Over 211,000 small woodland owners could get, at least, a part of their living from their forests. But at present, the supply of good quality timber for most of the industries is dangerously low.

The VPI foresters say the solution lies in more tree planting, better stocking, better use of all usable parts of a tree, better conditions for timber production, better quality, and more technical assistance. Virginia's forests produce only 15 to 40 as much as they could. The foresters say the harvesting of trees could become a $100,000,000 industry in a few years if forest lands were properly managed.

LAWNS MAY NEED FACE-LIFTING NOW

Your lawn may need a face-lifting this season. Horticulturists at VPI say if the lawn has bare spots and the grasses are weak, now is a good time to do something about it. One important factor to consider is the physical condition of the soil. It is often hard to improve the physical condition of the soil under established turf. A heavy soil becomes packed if walked on when the ground is muddy. Year after year, it becomes more compact.

Sometimes the compacted condition is made worse by rolling when the ground is wet. In some cases the packed soil can be helped by forcing a pointed instrument, into the ground 4 or 5 inches deep when the ground is not muddy. This can be done in small places with a spading fork.

Make holes in rows 6 inches apart. A tubular-tine fork can be used for this purpose. On large areas, a self-powered aerifier might be used. It makes 1-inch holes and drops the cores on the sod. If the soil is very close, remove the cores. Otherwise, leave them on top. The spikes attached to hand rollers do not go deep enough to be of much help. Sometimes they make bad conditions worse. Scratch or chop the soil in bare places about 1-inch deep so the seed can be covered.

Remember that the physical condition of the soil determines whether or not grass plants can survive in the soil. No amount of fertilizer can correct a bad physical condition.

Grass seed can be scattered over the thin or bare spots. It is a top dressing. It is to be used, the horticulturists suggest 1 bushel of moist sawdust mixed thoroughly with 1 pound of nitrate of soda, or 1 pound of ammonium nitrate, or 1 pound of phosphate of ammonia. Mix with 1 bushel of screened rotting compost or good loam soil, and scatter over seeded area. Sweep the top dressing into the sod with a broom.

On each 1,000 squares feet of lawn, spread 10 to 15 pounds of 6-2, 5-10-5, or 10-0-4 fertilizer. Fertilizer may burn the grass if the ground is dry. Water it in, if possible, before the top dressing is put down.

Any well-drained lawn will be helped by applying the seed, top dressing, and fertilizer, even if no aerifier is used.

The horticulturists also say that there is still time to prune summer flowering shrubs, if they were not pruned last month.

Check bush roses and prune them where needed. Place a caulking compound on all joints. The material deters carpenter bees and prevents disease organisms from entering into the canes.

Overgrown or neglected evergreens such as arbutus or chamacyparis, should be topped. New growth will soon cover the bare areas.

March also is a good time to move shrubs. Check and see if some dormant plants are being crowded. Remove the ones that are too close together.

While plants are still dormant, it is easy to spot scale insects. Inspect lilac, privet, euonymus, juniper, all fruit stock, English laurel and cotoneaster. They are especially susceptible to scale. Use a dormant oil spray according to directions on the container. Do not apply dormant sprays when the temperature is below 40 to 45°F. Avoid spraying in the late afternoon if there is danger of freezing.

If your yard lacks color in the fall or early winter, now is the time to plant one or two of the shrubs or trees with attractive fruit. The horticulturists suggest nandina, Chinese holly, cotoneaster, winged spindle tree, Linden viburnum, Oregon holly grape, Japanese aucuba, American holly, sweet, English or American holly.
